YOUTH GETS 20-YEARS

Joe Healy, 19 and his wife, Grace, 18, hear him sentenced to 20 years for slaying a woman while attempting to steal $3 to feed his hungry, pregnant wife. She faces life alone with her 17-month-old son whom young Healy has seen but once.

Sing Sing Gets Youth Slayer—But Probation Report Tells a Story

19-Year-Old Joe Healy Who Killed Woman for Money to Help Hungry, Pregnant Wife Gets
20 Years; Court Data Gives Background

Small, typewritten words in a sheaf of papers known as a probation report spelled out the life of a 19-year-old boy yesterday and told General Sessions Judge Morris Koenig why Joe Healy killed a woman to get food for his starving, pregnant wife.

Slums, lack of playgrounds, deep-seated poverty, a family too occupied with individual problems to give proper upbringing patterned the background. And the judge added the postscript to the report.

"Twenty years to life in Sing Sing," the judge said. Thereupon, they marched Joe off to the Big House, leaving behind his wife, Grace, 18 years, and the infant, Joe, Sr., whom he saw only once.

But the report remains fixed in the record, a perfect thing of its kind, a model to follow when the court considers the future Joe Healy brought before it charged with a variety of crimes.

THE VILLAGE OF SLUMS
Greenwich Village is the site of the story. Not the Village made famous by artists and writers, but the Village that sprang its old law tenements along teeming, crooked streets, filled with the poor of a large city.

"Healy is a weak-willed and maladjusted adolescent possessed of a deep rooted feeling of inferiority . . ." the report read. "He is essentially a product of his environment and the unsatisfactory character of his early life, marked

15 Families Flee As Fire Destroys B'klyn Dwelling

Fifteen families fled to the street yesterday as fire destroyed a three-story dwelling in the rear of 224 North Sixth St., Brooklyn, spread to two other dwellings and two small buildings, and for a time menaced other frame structures.

Only one person was injured—Mrs. Amelia Zoro of 209 North Fifth St.—but she required medical attention twice. After fleeing from her apartment on the floor, Mrs. Zoro was treated for shock and smoke inhalation.

Japanese Suffer Big Defeat in Mongolia

Invasers Repulsed at Lake Buir Soviet Press Reports

(By Cable to the Daily Worker)
MOSCOW, July 6.—Soviet newspapers today carried reports of a drastic Japanese defeat in an attempted invasion of the Khalkhin River district of the Mongolian People's Republic southeast of Lake Buir, in the easternmost part of the Republic.

Soviet and Mongolian land and air forces, bound to aid each other under terms of a mutual assistance pact between the two countries, collaborated in driving out the Japanese with great losses. Japanese losses on the land were set at 800 soldiers of Japanese and Manchukuoan army units killed, 50 Japanese tanks destroyed and eight field guns disabled. Japanese losses in the air were 45 planes brought down.

The battle started after the Japanese and Manchurian forces had concentrated large numbers of artillery, cavalry and artillery in the Nomon-Kan-Burd-Oba area southeast of Lake Buir.

One hundred Japanese tanks were assigned to support the attack, as

Allied Nations To Get London War Aid Credit

Trade Guarantee Bill to Finance Exports to Aid Poland First

LONDON, July 6 (UP).—The government today introduced an overseas trade guarantee bill in the House of Commons calling for £50,000,000 ($234,093,250) in credits to finance the export of war materials to friendly nations.

These credits, in addition to $47,000,000 in credits already guaranteed to the nations of the Anglo-French bloc, will go to Poland, Rumania, Turkey, and other nations which have received or are expected to be given armed guarantees by Britain and France.

Warsaw dispatches, meanwhile, said that informed Polish quarters believed that, for the present at least, Poland would refrain from sending any formal note of protest to Danzig's Nazi Senate against militarization of the free city.

Poland, it appeared, was leaving the initiative as regards Danzig to the London and Paris governments.

DEMAND 'HEDGING' END

The opposition in London is demanding that Chamberlain "stop hedging" and make an iron-clad declaration regarding the pledges to Poland.

117 Missing; Rains Block Kentucky Flood Relief

MOREHEAD, Ky., July 6 (UP).—Rain and rising streams tonight complicated the search for 117 persons reported missing in an eight-county area devastated by a "flash" flood that left at least 54 known dead.

MOREHEAD, Ky., July 6 (UP).—Flooded by heavy rain, the mountain streams in the northeastern Kentucky flood area swelled to torrents again today, hampering relief work and obscuring the exact number of casualties in the sudden washout yesterday.

The tentative death toll still stood at no fewer than 54 with upward of 2,000 persons homeless. Unconfirmed reports including remote communities indicated that as many as 100 might have died in the "flash" flood.

Resist Your Militarists, Chiang Tells Japanese

Leader Says Principles of Sun Yat Sen Will Never Be Abandoned

CHUNGKING, July 6 (UP).—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, in a message broadcast to the Japanese people today on the eve of the second anniversary of the outbreak of the Sino-Japanese war, today said that he will never abandon the three basic principles of the Chinese national revolutionary movement as outlined by the late Dr. Sun Yat-sen.

(These principles are nationalism, democracy and well-being of the people.)

He told the Japanese people, that they "must realize the significance of the Chinese nationalist revolution."

He reiterated China's determination to resist until "Japan thoroughly repents her past mistakes and fundamentally modifies her national policy."

Summarizing the strength of his national regime the Generalissimo said:

CHINA'S PRINCIPLES FIRM
"China stands on firm moral grounds. She has inexhaustible power. She has explicit belief in the principles of our patron saint, Dr. Sun. She stands on the principle of armed resistance and national reconstruction—proceeding side-by-side."

Recalling that the Japanese government repeatedly has stated that the cause of the war is the "anti-Japanese movement in China," the Generalissimo said that there is no such thing as anti-Japanism just as there is no such thing as pro-Japanism.

"When you invade us we naturally resist and consider you to be our enemy," he told the Japanese.

"If you will call off your aggression and profess friendliness there

Buckner Faces 2 Years in Jail For Bond Fraud

Fined Also $2500; Pleas

Associates Jailed

William P. Buckner, found guilty last week of mail fraud in connection with the Philippine Railway Bond swindle, was sentenced by Federal Judge Henry W. Goddard yesterday to serve 2 years in a federal penitentiary and pay a $2500 fine.

Buckner, the playboy criminal who used bondholders' money for wine, women, song and to court Congressmen and other big shots who could help him keep up the swindle, received the verdict in stony silence.

William J. Gillespie, Buckner's associate in the mail fraud conspiracy, and Felipe Buencamino, Philippine legislator, were sentenced to serve 18 months. Gillespie's fine was set at $2,000; Buencamino's at $5,000.

All three were freed on bail, pending an appeal.

John Minton, attorney for Buckner, attempted to have the shock-

Four Held In $100,000 Sales Tax Swindle

Inquiry Launched By Mayor, Comptroller Brings Arrests

The chief investigator of the Emergency Revenue Division was arrested last night with three others accused of complicity in a huge sales tax swindle to defraud the city of more than a $100,000 revenue earmarked for unemployment relief.

The quartet were scheduled to be arraigned late last night before Judge Edgar Bromberger in Chambers St. Magistrates Court on felony charges. The arrests followed a long investigation by Comptroller Joseph D. McDermott, under the direction of Mayor LaGuardia.

The sales tax frauds were revealed yesterday when picked detectives under command of Inspector Michael McDermott brought in 50 city employees and 40 others for questioning.

The arrested men were: Joseph A. Campbell, 75-60 178th St., Flushing, chief investigator of the Emergency Revenue Division; Herman Tessler, 280 E. 95th St., Brooklyn, employee in Division of Hearings; Irwin N. Blackman, 370 Seventh Ave., certified public accountant, representing the Benco Sales Co., 21 Maiden Lane; and Jack Uhlman, 275 Madison Ave., certified public accountant for the same firm.

CHARGED WITH 'GIFT TAKING'
The four were booked at the Elizabeth Street Police Station.

Campbell is charged with receiving a "gift" of $25 from Jacob Gottesman, attorney of 293 Madison Ave. Gottesman, according to the charges, represented John H. Dowd, Inc., liquor dealers, 7413 Roosevelt Ave., Jackson Heights.

The comptroller charged that Campbell permitted Dowd to pay his sales tax in installments, a violation of the revenue code, in return for the "gratitude."

Campbell was appointed to the

FDR Restores Administration Money Powers

Signs Bill Reviving Dollar Devaluation
After Reversal

WASHINGTON, July 6 (UP).—After a lapse of six days, the administration's fiscal policies were restored to normal today when President Roosevelt signed the monetary bill reviving his dollar-devaluation powers, the $2,000,000,000 currency stabilization fund and the silver purchase program.

He affixed his signature to the measure less than an hour after it arrived from the Capitol where a Senate coalition almost filibustered the powers into oblivion.

Earlier Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, Jr., had announced resumption of purchases of foreign silver at a price of 36.75 cents an ounce, 64 cents below the world market price which prevailed when the filibuster was launched 10 days ago.

The presidential powers, which expired at midnight June 30, when the filibusters talked on into the early morning, were salvaged yesterday when the Senate voted 43 to 39 to accept a compromise extension bill already approved by the House.

Hurrah for the brave Czech people, who defied the Nazis yesterday by honoring John Huss, their great teacher, on the anniversary of his execution!

John Huss is the greatest name in the history of Bohemia (later Czechoslovakia). A great name in world history too. His teachings inspired the successful national revolt against the Holy Roman Empire and feudalism. And his followers helped build up this nation of ours, as I'll show later.

A.F.L. BUILDING COUNCIL CALLS W.P.A. WALKOUT AGAINST WAGE SLASHES

Alliance Asks Joint WPA Action by CIO, AFL

Calls for a Nationwide Movement to Reverse
Woodrum Bill

By Adam Lapin

(Daily Worker Washington Bureau)
WASHINGTON, D. C., July 6.—The Workers Alliance of America today urged the CIO and the A. F. of L. to join in a common fight to enact legislation reversing the drastic WPA-crippling Woodrum Bill.

In a letter to its 1,800 branches throughout the country, the National Administrative Committee of the Alliance declared that the entire labor movement is hit by the Woodrum Bill and that "unity of labor is imperative" if any changes are to be effected.

Proposing "close consultation of all groups concerned," the Alliance expressed willingness to aid in reaching a common ground for action.

A series of mass meetings and stoppages held on a national scale was proposed by the Alliance as part of a coordinated drive to force amendment of the new relief bill.

The mangled relief measure passed by Congress was described by the Alliance leaders as "the product of the Garner-Woodrum-Taber axis designed to throw the program into discredit and to destroy it."

OUTLINES BROAD PROGRAM

As the immediate objective of a united labor drive against the Woodrum Bill, the Alliance proposed the following legislative changes:

Restoration of the prevailing wage provision instead of the mandatory 130-hour month which imposes cuts of 10 to 70 cents per hour.

Maintenance of wage levels while reducing differentials between North and South. A provision in Woodrum Bill cut down differentials by slashing wages in North and West by 30 to 50 per cent.

Encouragement of WPA workers to find jobs in private industry instead of the arbitrary provision forcing workers off the rolls after 18 months.

Discretionary power to the administration to distribute funds according to need. Present plans are Previous orders had prohibited the making of whipped cream. Sale of other similar products is strictly regulated or banned by the government.

CIO Cracks Hague Again on Street Rallies

Further Liberalizing of Meeting Ordinance
Promised Labor

JERSEY CITY, N. J., July 6.—Mayor Frank Hague bowed again today to the power of the labor movement and the United States Supreme Court.

Hague today promised the Congress for Industrial Organization (CIO) that the city ordinance on street meetings, which the city council was considering, would be more liberal than originally planned.

Street meetings can be held at any time of the year, Hague told William J. Carney, Regional Director of the CIO, and Attorney Spaulding Fraser. The original terms of the proposed ordinance, permitted street meetings only during a four weeks' period preceding elections—and then under severe restrictions.

Hague said police should be notified in advance of the meetings, but did not specify the three to four day notification that the original proposals required.

Shoptalk meetings can be held 50 feet from the factory gates of the factories to be organized.

Hague's manner was conciliatory. The council is expected to act quickly on the proposed ordinance.

British Miners To Send Plea to German Miners

SWANSEA, Wales, July 6 (UP).—The British Mine Workers' Federation adopted a message today to be sent to German miners by broadcasts and underground channels, reminding miners fought with them "against the pernicious Versailles Treaty." The message added:

Workers Alliance Meets Tonight on Support to Fight

SPREADS IN NATION

Move Directed Against Congress Tories, Says
Union Head

By George Morris

The New York Building and Construction Trades Council called a general walkout effective this morning of all its members on this city's WPA in protest against abolition of the prevailing wage scales in the Woodrum Bill, as similar stoppages spread to projects in many parts of the country.

The action giving official sanction to the walkout that began Wednesday, was taken yesterday at a meeting of representatives of the Council's 130 affiliates at 176 Madison Ave.

Thomas A. Murray, president of the Building Trades Council, announced that pickets will be placed at all construction projects today. At the same time the Workers Alliance of Greater New York announced through its president William Morgan that a general membership meeting is being held at Stuyvesant High School tonight, will take steps in support of the A. F. of L. in its fight to restore the prevailing wage.

TO MEET WITH MAYOR
Building trades union leaders are scheduled to meet with Mayor LaGuardia this morning on the situation at the World's Fair City Hall to request his support of their fight and that he countermand the "Work or off relief" order of Welfare Commissioner William Hodson.

Upon receiving news of the walkout call, the Mayor declined to issue a statement until he meets with the labor leaders this morning.

The walkout ordered by the Building Trades Council, Murray declared emphatically, is aimed only at Congress for enacting the law. "We all know that the only people who could change the law are those who made it," he said. "Congress hadn't the foresight to visualize the effect of such an amendment of the law."

"The best way to demonstrate it is by action of this kind."

'FIGHT TO FINISH'
Murray recalled that a similar strike over the same issue developed when Gen. Hugh Johnson was New York's WPA administrator in 1935.

"This is a fight to the finish," he said when questioned if a duration was set for the walkout.

"The power behind the Building Trades Council in New York is a membership of nearly 120,000—the strongest group of unions of the A. F. of L. Murray estimated that the Council's affiliates have from 25,000 to 30,000 members on WPA, but he stressed that they are skilled and key crafts on most of the major projects.

In its resolution the Council called upon the International Presidents of the building trades unions of the A. F. of L. to adopt "ways and means of having this measure amended that the agreed or prevailing rate of wages existing in a locality be received for work performed by building and construction workers, and prevent such an atrocious measure from tempting private industry to follow the attempts of the Works Progress administration, in preventing building trades workers from receiving a wage rate comparable with the American standard of living."

The Council also appointed committees in each borough to see that its walkout call is observed.

HODSON ASSAILED

It further designated a delegation headed by Mr. Murray to meet with Mayor LaGuardia today to seek his support.

Hodson was the target of a sharp attack at the meeting of A. F. of L. union delegates and in a letter directed to him by George Meany, president of the State Federation of Labor.

This was in reply to his announcement that those whom WPA dismisses for being absent from work five days will not regain their relief status or re-certification to

China More Confident of Victory Than Ever as 3rd Year of War Begins

Arms Ban Hit as Aid to Tokio, Axis Aggressions

Schwellenbach Says Act Makes U. S. Part to Fascist War Aims

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., July 6 (UP).—The existing Neutrality Act has made it possible for Japan to prosecute its two year war in China and has made this country an aid to international aggression, Sen. Lewis B. Schwellenbach, D., Wash., told the Institute of Public Affairs tonight.

Schwellenbach, an ardent supporter of the administration's attempt to secure repeal of the mandatory embargo on arms and ammunition, said that "were it not for the assistance of the United States, Japan's Chinese campaign would probably have collapsed many months ago."

The United States is Japan's most important ally, he said, because it furnishes it with 65.37 per cent of its imported oil; 90.37 per cent of the scrap iron it needs to manufacture munitions; 90.98 per cent of its copper; 99 per cent of its metal alloys; 67.9 per cent of its machinery; and 78.0 per cent of its military airplanes and parts.

The ironical aspect of the situation is emphasized, he added, by this country's pledge, made in the nine-power pact of 1921, to safeguard the rights and interests of China in the Far East.

Earlier, delegates heard Rear Admiral W. R. Furlong, chief of the Navy's Ordnance Bureau, relate that several foreign governments recently made "urgent requests" for designs of the new 16-inch guns to be mounted on some of the new American dreadnaughts.

Several Americans, he said, have been trying to persuade the navy to sell its $25,000,000 ordnance plant at Charleston, W. Va., to them for resale to a foreign government "at a good profit." Furlong did not name the governments, but Japan frequently has been mentioned as desirous of acquiring it.

TOKIO AIDS AXIS PLANS

Although the Rome-Berlin Axis has not been extended in military form to Tokyo, Schwellenbach said, there is no doubt that Japan is co-operating with Italy and Germany.

"It is no coincidence that every time Mr. Hitler has decided to seize more territory in Europe the attention of those who might oppose him has been distracted by annoyances from Japan," he said. "What other explanation can be given to the Tientsin incidents of the past few weeks and of the outbreaks between Japan and Russia upon the Mongolian border? Japan certainly doesn't today desire to add to its opposition. Japan's armies and its resources are fully occupied by the Chinese controversy. Yet deliberately it chooses, from time to time, to provoke unnecessary conflicts with England, France and Russia.

Such conflicts uniformly come simultaneously with threats of further acquisition of territory by Germany and Italy. No more decisive steps could be taken by a nation desiring to prevent war in Europe than those which would prevent Japan from rendering indirect assistance towards furthering of a war in Europe."

He characterized advocates of strict isolation as those who believe "we should refuse to recognize that we are a part of the world at all and that we should fold up in our shells and let the rest of the world go by."

Major-General Wesson, an earlier speaker, stressed this nation's need for ample war equipment.

Mayor Honored By Lithuanian Firemen's Assn.

The Firemen's Association of Lithuania through Jonas Zudrys, consul general of Lithuania, yesterday presented medals of honor to Mayor LaGuardia, Fire Commissioner John J. McElligott, Asst. Fire Chief John L. McKenna, and seven other fire department officials.

The medals are special decorations of the Lithuanian Fire Association, the chief of which is Antanas Petruskevicius, who just completed 15 weeks training in the New York City Fire School.

Presenting the medals, the consul general thanked the mayor and firemen for the cooperation of New York in improving the Lithuanian Fire Department.

"Lithuania is wholeheartedly striving for unanimity of all nations," said Zudrys, "and every opportunity to establish friendly relations adds a service for the attainment of world peace."

The Mayor said the medals reflected the efficiency of the New York City Fire Department. He declared that New York will always be happy to be of service to Lithuania.

Resistance, Growing Financial Crisis Staggers Tokio Dynasty

U. S. EMBARGO CAN SPUR CHINA TO WIN; TOKIO FAILURES BARED

By Harry Gannes

Today China enters its third year of magnificent resistance to Japanese aggression.

As a consequence of its failure to defeat a united Chinese nation, Tokio's crisis and desperation are evident even in the headlines.

The Tientsin blockade has dramatized the Japanese attack on Great Britain, France and the United States.

In fact, the propelling motives of Japan's insults and menaces in Tientsin are: (1) To compel Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain more energetically to extend his Munich intrigues to the Far East; and (2) to give the British Tories additional ammunition in their sniping against a peace front with the Soviet Union.

But the continuing battles of the Chinese people and the inability of the Japanese aggressors to make any headway as they require with their friend Chamberlain has brought the Tokio Hiranuma cabinet to the verge of collapse.

PLIGHT EXTREME

"Japanese military warns cabinet to join axis or quit," read the headline Wednesday. "Threats overthrow in two weeks should it fail to reverse stand."

Obviously the plight of the Japanese invaders is extreme.

Tokio is pouring $5,000,000 a day into the bottomless pit of its futile efforts to subdue an unconquerable China.

Realizing the failure of its military measures and apprehensions of the greater resistance bound to develop against the aggressor, the Japanese strategists are frantically depending on the Chinese traitors to help them. Millions are being spent to set up puppet governments. The most ambitious effort in this respect is that undertaken by the Japanese tool, Wang Ching-wei, who is supported by Japanese and Chinese Trotskyites.

As the third year of Chinese heroic battle opens, the Japanese are striving to do with Wang Ching-wei what they have been unable to achieve with their cannon and bombers.

JAPANESE LOSSES HEAVY

But the situation which has developed in China's extending resistance from the three months that the Japanese bragged about when they initially attacked the town of Luchukiao in the North to the third year will guarantee that Tokio's failure in treachery will be more ignominious than its set-back in war.

When one examines the losses suffered by Japan, the home crisis and the violent attempts to bring on a Far Eastern Munich are more readily understood.

Today Japan has 1,000,000 soldiers mired in China. Japan's armies have suffered a total of 900,000 casualties since the beginning of her aggression on July 7, 1937. Of these 400,000 were either killed or crippled so that they are irrevocably withdrawn from the fight.

Can Japan continue to fill the need for reinforcements? Can she concentrate sufficient troops at strategic points for sustained offensives? Can she even hold what has cost her so much to obtain?

The answer to all of these ques-

Claims 6,710 Feet Altitude Record For 2-Seat Glider

ELMIRA, N. Y., July 6 (UP).—A new altitude record for passenger flights in two-seated gliders was announced today at the 10th national soaring contests.

Levin B. Barringer, Orange, N. J., former president of the American Soaring Society, established the record yesterday. He reached 6,710 feet in a flight to Harford, N. Y., with William Rodenberg of Brooklyn as a passenger. The record formerly was held by Albert C. Staller of Los Angeles, who climbed to 5,800 feet in 1936 with John B. Baterson, Pasadena, Cal., as a passenger.

ions is an emphatic "no."

That is why the Nipponese have not carried through any serious or effective offensives since the fall of the Hankow area and Canton.

CHINA UNITY STRONG

In the record of China's resistance these events which occurred in October to the end of the year in 1938 are significant. They marked a turn in China's struggle. By the capture of Nanking earlier, the Japanese failed to break up Chinese national unity. On the contrary, unity was extended. Then, with the most costly efforts, with the taking of Canton and Hankow, Japan failed in smashing China's resistance, while at the same time Tokio had spent her ability to undertake any large scale or successful offensive.

This opened up what is known in China as the second stage of the war. The first stage was marked by the slow retreat, the dangerous stretching of Japan's lines, the strengthening of China's political unity, and the development of guerrilla fighting.

The second stage is known as that of deadlock. The Japanese can advance no further. Behind the Nipponese lines vast numbers of guerrilla fighters are developed. Huge masses are drawn into the battle. The Japanese suffer heavily. The beginnings are being laid for the third stage, that of general offensive against the invaders. The international situation (Tientsin, Danzig, the Mongolian People's Republic, the inner situations in France and Great Britain against another Munich) becomes more favorable for the battle against fascism in China.

Meanwhile, in Japan the economic and financial situation grows worse. For instance, when Japan started the invasion of China, she had $400,000,000 in gold. Today she holds less than $100,000,000. The conditions of the people grow less bearable daily. More than a year ago, the Japanese Diet adopted what is known as the "War Mobilization Law." In the most solemn manner, the reactionary regime promised the Japanese people this law would not be employed in the present invasion of China. Nevertheless, bit by bit it has almost entirely been enforced. Just a few days ago, more than 1,000,000 Japanese workers were conscripted under slave conditions for the war industry.

GUERRILLA WARFARE

While the Japanese masses grow more discontented with the regime that dragged them into a costly and ultimately catastrophic war, the Chinese people become more enthusiastic, united and determined in their support of the government of Chiang Kai-shek.

As an illustration of the growing fighting reserves of China, we quote the following of the meaning of guerrilla fighting, written by the Chinese writer, Wang Tsi-siang:

"One must not forget the special features and the positive sides of guerrilla warfare, namely:

"1.—The mass of the people can be mobilized and equipped on the largest scale for immediate participation in the anti-Japanese fight, for the guerrilla war itself is a form of the armed anti-Japanese fight of the masses;

"2.—The guerrilla warfare can negate the superiority of the army—the modern war technique—and strike him in his weakest spot. . . .

"3.—By means of guerrilla war, the puppet authorities created by the enemy can be removed and the Japanese army disintegrated. . . .

"These operations, of the guerrilla detachments, on the one hand, give the Chinese population in the occupied districts an effective stimulus for the anti-Japanese war, and on the other hand, exercise a tremendous pressure and influence on the political feelings of the soldiers in the Japanese army."

CHINA VICTORY ULTIMATE

Nor is this mass scale guerrilla fighting the only phase of China's military resistance.

Huge armies—in some instances said to be as large as 10,000,000—are being trained for both guerrilla and ultimately positional and offensive warfare. The guerrilla fighting, in the interior, saps the strength and effectiveness of the Japanese armies.

China's future, her independence, is historically and inextricably bound up with America's fate. Almost from the first days when this country won its national freedom it began to establish contact with and play a part in China's development.

No one can doubt that the outcome of China's valiant fight for national freedom will have the deepest effect on America's future. Japan through its reactionary clique has already vowed the destruction of the United States as a preliminary step to complete domination in China and to world conquest. In his earlier version of Hitler's Mein Kampf, the Japanese Baron Tanaka, in what is known as the Tanaka Memorandum, outlined the course of Nipponese aggression in China. He forecast war against the United States. Should Japan ever strengthen its hold on China, it would never rest until it had attempted to destroy the United States in the Pacific.

China's victory would be America's gain in numerous ways. U. S. security would be more solid. Together, the two people, after China's victory, unity and national independence, could work together for their mutual prosperity.

But we see today a strange and unfortunate situation. Whereas Japan's assaults in China are directed chiefly against the U. S., Great Britain and France, this country supplies Tokio with nearly 60 per cent of its war supplies. This is little better than supplying a bandit with the revolver and bullets with which to hold you up and ultimately attempt to assassinate you. The gainers here from such guerrilla business is a small group of trust—the leading ones can be counted on your fingers—J. P. Morgan & Co., the duPonts, the Fords, General Motors, Standard and Sinclair oil companies, etc.

It is the bounden duty of the American people to see that this third year of resistance by the heroic Chinese people does not pass without an embargo on the Japanese aggressor.

EMBARGO JAPAN

The Chinese people have established a glorious and inspiring record in the two years of unequal fighting which have passed. They will give us even greater feats in the year to come.

They have much to do, many torments to go through, and many obstacles to overcome. Their achievements, thus far, are the guarantee of their future struggle. But we too have a tremendous job before us to help China. We cannot flinch it because our own safety is involved.

Let us in this third year dedicate ourselves to the great goal of shutting off the supply of U. S. war materials to Hitler's Far Eastern agent, Japanese militarist-fascism.

'Krivitsky' Seeks Extension of Visa For U. S. Stay

Phony "General Krivitsky," the Saturday Evening Post's "Russian expert" recently exposed by the New Masses as an impostor who hails from Austria via Paris and whose real name is Samuel Ginsberg, yesterday applied for an extension of his visa at Ellis Island.

"Krivitsky," in collaboration with Isaac Don Levine, notorious red-baiter and slanderer of the Soviet Union, presented himself as a former Soviet general in the Post's articles.

Recently the Labor Department in Washington launched an inquiry into the details of the Krivitsky-Ginsberg passport. Final action on the case of the impostor is expected shortly.

Chinese Leader Urges Democratic Aid To Protect Own Interests Against Tokio

(Special to the Daily Worker)

WASHINGTON, July 6.—Dr. H. H. Kung, President of the Chinese Executive Yuan (Council) and Minister of Finance, in a statement made in Chungking and issued through the Chinese Embassy here on the second anniversary of the outbreak of the Sino-Japanese war Friday, declared that "Western powers can no longer ignore the fact that Japan's undisguised acts of lawlessness and international brigandage constitute a real and serious menace to their own vital and political interests."

Dr. Kung, analyzing the financial solidity of China despite the severe strain of a war against a technically superior invader, told the Western powers that they "must fully grasp the far-reaching international significance of these acts, namely, that clearly it is Japan's set policy to seek the conquest of China as a stepping-stone toward attempting to realize her lustful ambition of achieving the mastery of Asia, hegemony in the Pacific and eventual domination over the world."

Basis for Ultimate Victory Laid, Says China C.P. Head

2 Years of War Seen as Securing Final Aim of Tokio Defeat

(By Cable to the Daily Worker)

CHUNGKING, China, July 6.—Returning to Yennan, Shensi province, on the eve of the second anniversary of China's war of independence, Chow En-lai, Chinese Communist leader and Assistant Chief of the Political Department of the Military Council of China, predicted that China will finally reconquer her lost territory and be a free, united nation.

"Two years of our war of independence have shown that the Japanese have failed to fulfill their plans for a short war and a rapid victory," he said.

"The characteristic feature of the present period is the growth of our forces with the continuation of the war of independence."

"The enemy has concentrated all his present attention on 'mopping-up' his hinterland. He is striving to organize economic utilization of the 'occupied' territories and is waiting for an opportunity to renew military operations and begin a new offensive."

Regarding help to China by friendly countries, Chow said:

FOUNDATION FOR VICTORY

"We greatly appreciate international sympathy and support to China, although this support is as yet insufficient. At the same time, however, we basically make our plans on the basis of our own forces."

He continued with an analysis of the perspectives of the war.

"In the first period of the war we laid the foundation for final victory," he said. "In the second period of the war our policy remains on the whole the same, war until final victory."

"We must resolutely cut short all attempts at capitulation and take all measures necessary for the war and general mobilization. We must strengthen the national united front and take a firm stand against all provocations and attempts to disrupt the national united front."

"If we follow the policy of turning into our battlefield and pass over from small to big victories, we will be able to surmount all difficulties in our path."

Federal Reserve Board Reveals Democratic Gold Resources

WASHINGTON, July 6 (UP).—Gold resources of Great Britain and France are 28 times greater than those of Germany and Italy, the Federal Reserve Board said today.

The Board disclosed the gold reserves of the two democratic powers total about $6,215,000,000 compared with $222,000,000 held by Italy and Germany.

The Board revealed that Britain and France are building up substantial gold stocks in Canada, South Africa and British India. These reserves totaled $395,000,000 at the end of March, the Board said.

Britain's gold holdings amount to $3,449,000,000; those of France are $2,766,000,000.

The United States alone holds over $16,100,000,000 worth of gold as a result of the unprecedented flight of the metal to this country for safe-keeping.

Germany's gold holdings were placed at $29,000,000. Italy has $193,000,000, and Japan has $164,000,000.

Gold production throughout the world has increased at such a rate, the survey said, that world monetary gold stocks are now thought to be around $27,000,000,000, compared with about $4,000,000,000 in 1913. Mine output in 1938 was $1,116,983,000, nearly three times the output in 1929.

WHERE FIGHTING RAGES: Chinese regulars yesterday concentrated north of Swatow. A Japanese landing party was driven off with heavy losses at Fuchow.

near Fuchow, Fukien province, were repulsed by the Chinese.

The first attempt, on July 2, was made in Tientsin, northeast of Fuchow. The Japanese were forced to return to their ships after a furious hand-to-hand battle.

In the same sector, the Japanese attempted to land in Kiangling two days later. As the Japanese moved ashore, Chinese artillery batteries opened fire. The Japanese lost half their landing party and the others fled back to their ships.

WARNING

WE are determined to elect Communist candidates to City Council in 1939! We are confident that we can do the job. But others are determined to block our efforts. They, too, feel confident!

We know how systematically the reactionary press buries the victories of progress under a mass of distorted headlines. We know with what thoroughness they distort the aims and purposes of the Communist Party. We have seen their witch-hunting campaigns before. We take ample warning. We know what to expect from the press in the elections of 1939.

We speak for our candidates primarily through the pages of the Daily Worker. It is the only paper that consistently publishes the truth about our candidates and their program. It is the only New York paper that fights for and not against them.

When a reader misses one day's copy of the Daily Worker, he hears about Amter, Begun, Cachione, and Crosbie, only from those who are fighting against their election. If we are to elect our candidates, we must make every Daily Worker reader an every-day reader—and win new ones.

Results prove that the Daily Worker Coupon Book does the job. Get them at your branch meetings! Sell them everywhere! This is your way of electing Communist candidates to City Council!

Perkins Orders Mediator As G. M. Strike Spreads

Company's Refusal to Negotiate Held
Tie-up Cause

By William Allen
(Special to the Daily Worker)

DETROIT, July 6.—With 3,700 General Motors tool and die makers, maintenance men and engineers forced on strike by the refusal of General Motors to negotiate a supplementary agreement covering this strata of men, Frances Perkins, Secretary of United States Department of Labor, today ordered James Dewey, Federal conciliator to Detroit to seek a conference between union officials and General Motors.

The strike now in its third day affects four Detroit G. M. plants and a plant in Pontiac, Michigan, and will affect another G. M. plant Friday when the union will shut down Fisher 37 in Detroit.

Other developments are, that the job shops which still are not affected are called to a meeting at 51 Sprout St., Detroit, Monday to discuss their position on the strike.

If strike action is taken, and union leaders do not yet indicate such action, this will tie up the entire tool and die program.

With typical General Motors arrogance the company has point-blank refused to deal with the UAW-CIO, giving all kinds of flimsy excuses.

G. M. ATTITUDE PROVOCATIVE

Their latest position is that they want the NLRB to conduct an election to "decide which union General Motors will bargain with."

With 90 per cent of the tool and die makers voting for strike in the struck plants and strike votes being taken in others, the strike provoking attitude of the company is clear.

The strikers, tool and die men with the maintenance men constitute the backbone of the UAW-CIO. They are uniformed and their picket lines and splendid organization show the solidarity of this strike.

Labor unity again comes to the forefront just as in other auto strikes. The AFL patternmakers union, which has 50 men working in Fisher 23 walked out with the CIO die-makers and through their business agent stated:

"Not only will we refuse to walk through a picket line," said Tice, their business agent, "but we are in sympathy with the strike."

The union demands are, uniform hiring, rates for all plants, at least 10 cents an hour increase for all tool and die-makers, maintenance and engineering workers, overtime provisions, time and one-half for all Saturday work and double time for Sundays and holidays, and a standard apprentice set-up for all G. M. plants.

Late Thursday James Dewey announced that he expected to arrange a meeting with the union and company officials.

2 Hurt When Racketeers Bomb Penn. Beauty Shop

UPPER MERY, Pa., July 6 (UP).—Two men were reported in "serious condition" today from burns received when an incendiary bomb was thrown into a beauty shop, supposedly by protection racketeers, demolishing the store and causing a blaze which threatened the business section.

Charles Shaffer, the proprietor, and John Dash, a business associate, suffered second and third degree burns.

Police were convinced that protection racketeers had bombed the store.

as it was by family disintegration... aptly conditioned him for the development of an anti-social attitude that finds ultimate expression in the instant offense.

When Joe was 12, his mother died, leaving 10 children and a father who peddled fruit from a pushcart to earn a living. His older sisters, busy with their jobs, found little time for the impressionable youngster so...

"Finding little to attract him within the circle of a seemingly disinterested family group, he sought recreation and companionship among a disorderly group of rwdies who congregated about the street corners of the Greenwich Village section."

There, he buried his feelings of inferiority by mirroring the tough guy attitudes of the boys, more than anxious to appreciate his readiness to defy any and all forms of authority.

HIS 'CRIMINAL BACKGROUND'

"His delinquencies may have been the unfortunate result of an adventurous spirit that was denied a wholesome channel or an outlet. However, this normal instinct became as a result of the adverse influence of his companions, a determination on Healy's part to attain success in the field of criminal activities."

The path of crime led to "reformatories" and back into the squalor of Greenwich Village where he met his wife, then 16 years. The baby came imminent, hunger dogged the young couple's heels, so Joe set out to get food.

He broke into a delicatessen store on Nov. 25, 1937, was taking the $8 contained in the till when suddenly the owner, Mrs. Martha Hore, 65 years, caught him. The youth lost his head and stabbed the aged woman to death.

WIFE WAS HUNGRY

When they caught him, the boy confessed readily. Grace was hungry, they needed food, he was sorry about the old lady, Joe told the cops. For nearly two years, he languished in the Tombs from where they took him to General Sessions to hear sentence pronounced.

"It was a vicious crime, but I don't want to be brutal or asinine and place myself on a mental par with the defendant's attitude," said General Sessions Judge Koenig in explaining why he gave Healy the statutory minimum of 20 years, rather than 25 or 30.

The youth was indicted for first-degree murder which would have meant the electric chair had he been convicted. He pleaded guilty to second-degree murder just as a jury was about to be selected.

"In a Brooklyn case which attracted grave attention (obviously the Drunkman case) four men were given 20 years to life on conviction of murder in the second degree," Koenig continued.

"Why should this defendant receive greater punishment than they?"

His wife says she'll wait. Joe becomes eligible for parole in 11 years, if he behaves.

"I can wait for him," she told reporters. "They can't keep Joe there so long that I won't be waiting for him when they let him out."

Everybody agreed that the young mother might even have been pretty if she had enough food to round out the thin lines of her figure and face.

well as squadrons of bombing and combat planes.

The attacking units were identified as the entire 23rd Infantry Division of the Japanese Army, under the command of Gen. Kamatubara, an infantry regiment, the 3rd and 4th Tank Regiments as six regiments of Bargu cavalry.

Zero hour for the attack was dawn of July 3, when these units took the offensive on a front extending northwards to Lake Yang against Mongolian-Soviet positions east of the Khalkhin River. The objective of the offensive was to break through to the west bank and endanger a Mongolian sector partially surrounded by Manchurian territory.

Repeated attacks by the Japanese land forces were all driven off in the Nomon-Kan-Burd-Obo sector, though to the northwest Japanese infantry supported by 60 tanks forced back Mongolian-Soviet cavalry units, crossed to the western bank of the Khalkhin River and dug in.

SOVIET-MONGOLIA COUNTER DRIVE

The counter-attack of the Soviet-Mongolian troops was supported by air units of the two allied powers, and the Japanese were driven back to the east bank of the Khalkhin by the end of July 5. They had sustained heavy losses.

The air battles had started on July 2, the day before the land attack, but command of the air invariably remained in the hands of the Soviet-Mongolian air force.

It was learned at the headquarters of the Soviet-Mongolian troops that a Japanese officer named Kawahara, who had headed the press bureau of the Kwantung Army, the Japanese force involved, had been dismissed for publication of false and boastful reports of the imaginary successes of Japanese air units. He was replaced by Col. Wato.

Fur Unions Files Appeal on Gowanda Fines

Members Penalized for Seeking Permit to Solicit Union Ad

GOWANDA, N. Y., July 6.—The International Fur and Leather Workers Union, CIO, has filed an appeal against the $10 fines imposed on ten members by local Judge John Zaccaro because they sought a permit to solicit advertising for a union journal.

The union members, found guilty of "disturbing the peace" were arraigned on complaint of Judge Sipple, who is also secretary of the Merchants Association.

Judge Zaccaro admitted that the union members were not guilty of a misdemeanor nor were their intentions to be criticized. However, he attacked them for going in a body. He imposed a suspended sentence of 10 days each in the county jail and $10 fines.

Jules Filer and Leo Lewis, union organizers, announced that the union would appeal the decision and said that plans were under way for a protest meeting against the court action.

The Generalissimo, differentiating between the Japanese people and their military leaders, said that one of the chief characteristics of the Japanese "militarists" is a mental outlook which "renders them unable to admit that they ever are in the wrong."

He said Japan's generals refused to admit they were wrong in invading China and blamed China for the start of the war. Now that they "have failed to achieve their objectives they are shifting the blame to European countries who are friendly to China."

Britain, he said, is the first scapegoat selected by the Japanese army because Britain is preoccupied in Europe. After Britain has been disposed of, he added, the Japanese probably will try to eliminate the interests of other powers in East Asia one by one.

"The longer Japan wastes her powers in wars of aggression," the Generalissimo said, "the weaker her moral strength will become. Sooner or later her international position will deteriorate."

"China has to wage only one war but Japan is surrounded by hostile forces," the Generalissimo concluded.

Arkansas Governor Electrocutes Negro Boys Over Protests

Framed 'Rape' Charges Put 2 Boys to Death;
Mass Protests Fail to Move Gov. Bailey;
Dodge Delegation Demanding Pardon

(By Associated Press)

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., July 5.—Electrocution of Bubbles Clayton and Jim X. Carruthers, Blytheville Negroes, framed on charges of rape, on June 30, climaxed a bitter fight which had taken the case of the two framed Negroes through the courts for four years and brought thousands of protests from justice-loving persons all over America.

The execution came after a complicated series of runarounds by Arkansas' two similarly-named but unrelated chief executives, Gov. Carl Bailey and Lieut. Gov. Bob Bailey. The governor, besieged during a visit to New York by protests against the death of the two young Negroes, promised to hold hearings on his return to Little Rock. On his return, however, he successfully evaded delegations of liberal and Negro organizations for two days, then departed abruptly for Washington. Meanwhile Bob Bailey, in authority during the governor's absence, took the position that it would be "unethical" for him to hear any review of the case or to postpone the executions except on request of the governor.

Prison authorities announced that Carruthers had "confessed" a few moments before his death—an announcement that was immediately hailed by the lieutenant governor as the "best answer" to the individuals and organizations who had flooded his office with demands.

Attorneys for the Negroes and officials of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, however, regarded the purported confession with serious doubt, pointing out that the entire trial record was a mass of inconsistencies and prejudicial conditions. No newspaper men heard Carruthers' alleged statement. Clayton died protesting his innocence.

Plea for a stay of execution had come from the Packinghouse Workers Organizing Committee (CIO), the Newspaper Guild (CIO), and many other labor unions as well as from liberal and Negro organizations and from thousands of individuals.

Refugee Tells of Bund Violations At Jersey Trial

Says Nazis Wore Stormtroops Uniforms at Camp
Nordland Activities in Violation of Law;
Action on License Sought

NEWARK, N. J., July 6 (UP).—German-American Bund members participating in Fourth of July activities at Camp Nordland, Andover Township, N. J., wore uniforms "almost exactly" like those of Nazi S.S. and S.A. troopers, an Austrian refugee testified today.

The refugee, Hans Steiner, testified at a special hearing called to determine whether the Nazi Bund members had violated a state law forbidding the public wearing of uniforms similar to those worn by "the military, semi-military, naval, police, storm troop or other official or semi-official forces of any foreign state."

D. Frederick Burnett, State Alcoholic Beverage Control Commissioner, had ordered August Klapprott, manager of Camp Nordland, to show cause why his temporary liquor license should not be revoked as a result of the violation.

REACTION HAS BAG FULL OF TRICKS, BROPHY WARNS

Tells Delegates at Marine Parley to Beware of Spies

Urges Trade Unions to Disown Red-Baiters, Says Labor Must Develop More Educational Work

(Special to the Daily Worker)
NEW ORLEANS, July 6.—John Brophy, national CIO director, today warned the American labor movement that labor-hating employers, finding old methods of union-busting becoming out-dated, are turning more and more to the labor spy as an industrial asset.

Speaking before the second biennial convention of the National Maritime Union in Jerusalem Temple here, he said:

"Old anti-labor tricks are proving worthless. The lock-out, the mass lay-off, the corruption of politicians, have not been enough to defeat the CIO as they have not been enough to cripple the NMU. Only lies and slanders and red-baiting and the use of spies and traitors are left."

He was referring to the recent exposure of a shipowner group within the ranks of the union, whose allies are attempting to lead a "secession" movement in some Gulf ports.

"The wage-cut, the lock-out, the deliberately provoked strike don't succeed as they used to in breaking the labor movement. The employers have tried them all and they know how they have failed. They tried in coal, in textiles, in automobiles—but they did not succeed."

UNDERHAND RED-BAITING

"If simpler methods don't work if the union proves too strong for the reactionary employers, they are forced into more and more underhand tactics. They are forced to rely more and more heavily on propaganda, on lies and slander, and red-baiting, on spies and traitors."

"Such employers don't want collective bargaining. Men like the shipowners, like Henry Ford, like Tom Girdler don't want collective bargaining. They prefer confusion and disorder because they can profit by it at the workers' expense."

"They try to label every collective bargaining attempt as anti-social, anti-religion, anti-American, anarchistic, communistic anything they can find in the dictionary of confusion."

Naturally, the CIO director continued, the employers must find agents to spread "this poison" if it is to be effective.

URGES TRADE UNION EDUCATION

Mr. Brophy outlined the methods by which these people work—methods outlined time and again by witnesses before the Lafollette Civil Liberties Committee.

"Usually they are out to 'preserve the union,' he continued, sarcastically. "Frankly, they pose as the most militant, more 'progressive,' wide-awake to the interest of the membership" than other members of officers."

"One of their favorite methods is red-baiting, such as your union has seen. They pretend to denounce the reds in the interests of the union."

"They attack honest officials, declaring that they are trying to destroy the labor movement. They wrap up their splitting tactics with lies about democracy and saving the union and the membership."

The answer to this method, the solution to the problem of the labor spy, Brophy said, is trade union education.

"The answer," he said, "is vigilance and truth. A trade union can do much to spread light and information. More of our unions will have to create education movements—both to solve this immediate problem of the employers' labor spy tactics and to solve our more basic economic evils."

"If we are to be vigilant against our enemies, we must learn to recognize the difference between honest critics, honestly misinformed individuals and the cunning agent of the enemy who tries to exploit that misunderstanding for the employers' gain."

"We must learn to teach our own people. We must teach them to analyze the real purpose of these people who try to disrupt our organization."

PAYS TRIBUTE TO CURRAN

The CIO director paid tribute to NMU president Joseph Curran for his leadership during the trying period of "labor spies in the NMU."

Robert Sentman, of the United States Housing Authority, urged the delegates to back the New Deal housing program as an important asset to the workers of the country.

The convention today voted to seat all contesting delegates from Gulf ports with the exception of four. Those four were: Frank Rinaldo and C. H. Applewhite, former Gulf officials, recently suspended by the membership; and William McCusker and F. P. O'Donohue, both of whom announced that they were walking out of the convention yesterday.

The total number of delegates so far is 185, of whom approximately 140 represent ships and the balance represent the Atlantic and Gulf districts. Many of the district representatives are from ships however.

Sandhogs Meet Mayor on Job Tieup

Union Leader Asks That Construction Firm Loses Contract

A delegation of officers of the Sandhogs Union—Local 147 of the International Union of Hod Carriers—conferred with Mayor LaGuardia yesterday afternoon in an effort to settle a jurisdictional fight which has brought a stoppage of work on the Delaware River Aqueduct and the Midtown Queens-Manhattan Tunnel.

James Gallagher, president of Local 147 and leader of the sandhogs' group, asked the Mayor to take steps to abrogate the aqueduct contract held by the Walsh Construction Co.

He charged the company, which also has the Queens Tunnel contract, acted in collusion with officers of Local 60, of the same AFL union, in paying less than the union scale on the aqueduct job and failed to maintain safety standards.

Gallagher was supported in his charges by a group of rank and file members of Local 60. No officers of Local 60 were present at the conference.

MAYOR COMMENTS ON FIGHT

Officers of Local 147 and the rank and file men from Local 60 charged that Joseph Moreschi, president of the International, and James Bove, vice-president, were working in favor of the construction company and not the union members.

They further asserted that Local 60 officials were attempting to "smash" Local 147.

Following the conference, Mayor LaGuardia told reporters that the fight was "purely intra-union trouble."

"The story doesn't differ at all from what the Board of Water supply reported," he said. "It is purely intra-union trouble and the city and the contractor are helpless."

"Personally, I am very fond of the sandhogs and I will see if some adjustment can be made."

The Mayor added that he had arranged to meet again with the union men today and attempt to effect a settlement.

Besides Gallagher, other union officials present at the City Hall conference were Patrick McGee, secretary-treasurer of Local 147; Brian Feeney, business agent, and Joseph Devine, of the Blasters Protective Association.

Gallagher also announced that he had wired federal and state authorities demanding an investigation of the attack on Local 147 members Wednesday night.

He charged that Local 60 had brought in "hired hoodlums" from other states to attack Local 147.

Two weeks ago, Local 147 obtained an injunction restraining the International and Local 60 from interfering with the activities of the sandhogs' union.

Gallagher charged that Local 60 was charged in an attack on Local 147. He denied that Local 60 had jurisdiction in Yonkers.

REPORTS CONFESSION

Meanwhile, one of the 12 men arrested for attacking Local 147 pickets Wednesday night was reported to have confessed that he and the others were hired by Local 60 to beat up Local 147 men.

The 12, who will be arraigned today at the Bedford, N. Y., police court, were released on $250 bail each, furnished by a bondsman who said he represented Local 60.

Bedford Police Chief Frank R. Mallette, according to Local 147, reported that Frank Paolicelli, 14, of 288 Main St., Yonkers, had confessed that he and the other 11 had been hired to beat up Local 147 pickets.

Although the 12 are charged with disorderly conduct, it was indicated by local authorities that the charges may be increased to assault following the hearing today.

Eight Local 147 men were attacked with knives, broken bottles and other weapons. Bryan Sharkey was beaten unconscious and is in serious condition in Northern Westchester at Mount Kisco.

James Gallagher, not the Local 147 president, was stabbed and beaten over the head, and Charles Dunlap was beaten with a broken bottle. An additional five Local 147 members were attacked a little later.

When police arrested the 12, they said that an assortment of weapons was found on them.

Longshore Union Holds 3-Day Parley Here

A preliminary meeting of delegates of the Atlantic Coast districts of the International Longshoremen's Association continued yesterday at the Hotel Commodore.

The conference, attended by about 150 longshore delegates and union officials will precede the opening of the regular I.L.A. convention scheduled to open next Monday.

The second day's session of the regular convention will be held on the Rye, N. Y. grounds. Joseph Ryan, I.L.A. president announced.

return on WPA. A similar announcement was issued by up-state relief officials.

"Did you, in your zeal to co-operate with the fascist-minded Congressmen who would grind labor into the mire," Meany wrote to Hodson, "realize that your action was a notification to good, decent American citizens that, so far as you are concerned, their sole choice was either to abandon the standards of a lifetime or else face starvation?"

"Your speedy action of telling these men that they can either take the monstrous scam wages now offered to them or else take themselves and their children away to some quiet place to starve, is unspeakably contemptible."

Declaring Hodson's action without a "scintilla of justification," Meany told him his edict is a challenge "to all those who sincerely believe in decent American standards of living."

When Meany's letter came before the Buildings Trades delegates it was greeted with loud applause and demands for Hodson's removal.

At the WPA office Col. Brehon B. Somervell, New York administrator, repeated his announcement that those who stay off WPA for more than five days will be removed from the rolls. At the same time he posted at all projects a telegram from Col. F. C. Harrington, Commissioner of the Works Projects Administration at Washington, declaring that the wage scales were set by Congress in the Woodrum bill and that "no office of the Works Projects Administration has authority to depart from it."

Harrington further included the reminder that those absent from WPA for five days will be dismissed.

"We can't recognize any strike. If they don't want to work for the wages that Congress has prescribed, it's their own affair," Somervell said.

"We don't care whether they work or not."

He admitted that only 65 per cent of the 32,000 skilled workers on the projects reported to work according to his partial survey. The full effect will not be known for some days, however, he said, as skilled workers are scheduled to put in their time on WPA at different periods in a month.

PROJECTS AT STANDSTILL

Work upon P.S. 27 and P.S. 64 remained at a standstill yesterday, he said, and at the North Beach Airport project construction work was crippled.

Meanwhile reports from all parts of the country indicated that New York pictured a nationwide situation.

From Duluth it was reported that a large majority of the WPA workers in that city and in the Messaba Range area came out on strike against the cut in prevailing wages and the pending dismissal "for a month" of all WPA workers who have been on WPA 18 months or more. The strikers wired their congressmen demanding repeal of the destructive provisions in the Woodrum law and urged the Alliance to spread similar action nationally.

Minneapolis, Fort Dodge, Iowa; Rochester, Cleveland, Milwaukee, reported walkouts. In all cases there was apparent indication that the movement is taking on wider scope.

Uptate New York WPA Administrator Lester W. Herzog and State Welfare Commissioner David C. Adie joined in a statement warning WPA workers to stay on the jobs or face denial of relief.

"We are no scoundrels, and WPA workers who refuse to work will not go on home relief," Adie said.

He later backed down, however, with a proviso that children would not be starved.

The statements of the up-state relief directors were apparently aimed at heading off the rapidly spreading strike sentiment. More than 1,500 are out at Rochester.

In his statement for the Workers Alliance, Morgan emphasized that his organization is interested in a number of changes in the Woodrum Act.

"The Workers Alliance will of course support the American Federation of Labor in its attempt to win back the prevailing hourly rates destroyed by the Woodrum relief bill."

He said the policy will be set forth at the general meeting tonight and at a meeting of the mechanics local of the Workers Alliance at 290 Seventh Ave., scheduled the same time.

"We want to emphasize, however, that the question involved is considerably more than the prevailing hourly rate," Morgan continued.

"We are also concerned regarding the question of the Federal Theatre Project and other arts projects as well as the 18-month rotation plan."

"Reports from our national office indicate that in Ohio, Illinois, Wisconsin and Minnesota the AFL, CIO and the Workers Alliance are working together as a unit on all these questions. We are hopeful that the same unity of action can be secured with all labor groups in New York."

Senate Groups Reject Isolation War Poll Bills

WASHINGTON, July 6.—Two isolationist war referendum proposals were turned down by the Senate Judiciary Committee today, then sent to the Senate for consideration.

The proposals were sponsored by 12 Senators. One called for a general vote to decide on a declaration of war or participation in "warfare overseas." The second called for a referendum and then final action by Congress in declaring war.

The first was rejected in a 9 to 8 vote, the second by a 9 to 6 vote.

Restoration of power to the Federal government to operate the Federal Theater Project and other arts projects.

The Alliance leaders pointed out that most of these proposals had been incorporated in the relief bill passed by the Senate and were thrown out in conference.

ASKS NATIONAL STOPPAGES

Action by locals of the Workers Alliance in cementing cooperation between the CIO and the A. F. of L. to defeat the Woodrum Bill was urged as the first step in the new drive.

Workers Alliance groups were urged to participate in stoppages throughout the country on the basis of a "commonly agreed program."

In cases where no stoppages have as yet been held, the Alliance proposed one-day mass rallies and protests after which workers are to return to their jobs only under protest.

Inquiry Launched By Mayor, Comptroller Brings Arrests

city service on April 19th, 1936. At the time of his arrest and suspension from the service, he received a salary of $3,540 a year.

Tessler was accused with splitting a $450 "gift" with the two certified public accountants now held with him. According to the complaint, the city should have received $5,000 as revenue on sales taxes levied against the Benco Co., dealers in electrical merchandise.

This sum, the comptroller asserted, was reduced to $4,100 by Tessler, the $450 balance being divided between the three.

Mayor LaGuardia lauded McGoldrick's action as a "good family housecleaning of contemptible grafters."

"We have been on this for quite some time," he said, referring to the Comptroller's investigation of the tax swindle.

"We made a very careful investigation before anyone was actually discharged or suspended."

The Mayor explained the investigation revealed that employees of the Emergency Revenue Division involved in the fraud had accepted gratuities from persons who dodged taxes in order to cover up the tax-dodgers.

"I am sorry to say," he declared, "that it is not unusual. This gratuity system is the curse in many tax systems. Of course we will not stand for that."

PROBE BEGAN JAN., 1938

The tax fraud inquiry was secretly initiated shortly after McGoldrick assumed office on Jan. 1, 1938 when he found the Emergency Revenue Division in an "indescribable condition." He succeeded Frank J. Taylor, a Tammany Democrat.

"Gross inefficiency was apparent in the auditing of tax returns," McGoldrick declared, "in holding hearings and making determinations of taxes due."

"Accountants who were badly needed in the field had been assigned to clerical work in the office. There were several years' accumulation of papers upon which no action had been taken," he said.

For months prior to McGoldrick's election, rumors had been rife that sales tax returns could be fixed. Although the Comptroller did not say so yesterday, it is known that these rumors served as grounds for a probe.

He began his clean-up on three fronts. On April 1, 1938, he replaced political hacks with civil service employees as quickly as possible. A month later, he forbade city accountants to hold private accounts, having been advised that several city accountants had been instructing business firms how to evade taxes.

Affiliation of USSR Unions Key Issue at Zurich

Green's Opposition Assailed By Pro-Unity Delegates; France, Mexico Lead Demand for Inclusion as Blow to Fascism

(Wireless to the Daily Worker)

ZURICH, Switzerland, July 6.—The two paths open to the international labor movement—unity for peace and progress, or division of labor ranks, with resulting encouragement of the war-makers and reactionaries—were outlined before the International Federation of Trade Unions today at a dramatic morning session.

Robert J. Watt, speaking for the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor, made his first appearance in an international labor congress as the foremost and most vicious foe of working-class unity.

Watt personally attacked the Soviet trade unions, which the British and Norwegian trade unions propose shall be asked to join the I. F. T. U., and read an anti-unity letter from William Green, A. F. of L. president.

After the British resolution was introduced this morning by Sir Walter Citrine, president of the I. F. T. U. and head of the British Trades Union Congress, George Hicks, British representative, and Olaf Hundahl, spoke on its behalf.

ASSAILS FOES OF UNITY

Then came the most important speech of the day, by Julien Racamond, Associate Secretary of the French General Confederation of Labor (C. G. T.). Racamond marshaled the key facts of the international situation and the working-class movement during the past three years to deal hammer blows to the reactionary opponents of unity.

Racamond was followed by Watt, who read Green's letter, dated June 15, and made his own supplementary remarks.

The pro-unity forces came back for the last punch when Victor Manuel Villaseñor, representing the Mexican Labor Confederation (C. T. M.), replied to Watt. Villaseñor showed the reactionary attitude at the heart of Watt's stand and reaffirmed the vital necessity of affiliation of the Soviet trade unions.

Villaseñor's speech ended the morning session and debate was adjourned until tomorrow. This discussion is the key to the future of the I. F. T. U.

Racamond, urging the necessity of international labor unity to halt fascism and war, condemned the tendency of some I. F. T. U. leaders to make the organization "a labor International Red Cross."

CITES EFFECTS OF ANTI-UNITY

He sharply outlined the results of the failure to achieve unity in accordance with the decisions of the London Congress of the I. F. T. U. three years ago.

"The truth, Brothers, is that concern for the independence of the trade union movement has given way to a partisan spirit," he said. "It is a striking demonstration of the anti-Communist struggle which is given satisfaction to some, but still is contrary to the interests of the masses of the workers who are threatened by war."

"Every trade union member knows that it is necessary to unite the organized forces of the international proletariat. The British unions' proposal shows this."

"Yet neither the British nor the Norwegian proposals faithfully interpret the letter and spirit of the London decision, for it is simply a question of inviting the Soviet trade unions to affiliate to the I. F. T. U."

Not a few delegates marked the basic difference between Racamond's masterly expose and the spirit of hatred breathing through every line of Green's letter.

Green went so far as even to oppose consideration of the British proposal.

The most shocking passage, even for the most hardened reformists, came when Green had the audacity and scorn for truth to compare the Soviet trade unions with the German Nazi Labor Front.

Green's concluding remarks were that should the British Trades Union Congress proposal, to which he declared his "irrevocable opposition," be adopted, "then the A. F. of L. will be obliged to consider whether it should leave the I. F. T. U."

Villaseñor hit back in a fighting speech in the name of the Latin American workers.

"The Mexican delegation," he said, "is of the opinion that a world catastrophe can still be averted by uniting the working class forces of all countries, and that this alone can force the most effective weapon against fascism. To oppose unity is to assume a fearful responsibility before history, a stand forever unjustifiable."

Villaseñor told the A. F. of L. leaders that they entered the I. F. T. U. knowing the strong sentiment in favor of affiliation of the Soviet Unions and they joined under the same resolution which called for negotiations with the Soviet organizations.

Villaseñor illustrated the fascist danger with reference to his own country, and declared that the opponents of progress in Mexico may choose force in an effort to obtain power.

Declaring that the people of Mexico are determined to defeat fascism, he concluded, "We support the demand for unity in the hope that we shall find an irresistible force of the working class of the whole world at our side."

Kluckhohn's 'Red' Peril on WPA Fizzles

(Daily Worker Washington Bureau)

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 6.—Frank Kluckhohn's carefully planned "red revolution" on WPA just didn't materialize this afternoon.

The New York Times correspondent, who was tossed out of Mexico a few months ago for persistent slandering of the liberal Cardenas regime, walked into the press conference of Col. F. C. Harrington, WPA Administrator, with a mouthful of red-baiting questions.

Kluckhohn, who doesn't ordinarily cover WPA at all, monopolized the conference with questions designed to show that the Workers Alliance and the Communist Party were behind the present strikes of building trades of workers and were undermining the relief program generally.

Harrington refused to bite, and supplied none of the gory details for which Kluckhohn was fishing.

Finally, Kluckhohn got to the point and asked whether Harrington intended to clamp down on the Workers Alliance or the Communist Party in response to the campaign of the Woodrum Committee.

"No, I haven't found it necessary to take any action," Harrington replied firmly.

Youth Vote Blow to GOP-Garner '40 Aims

Informal Congress Poll Gives FDR Huge Ballot; Taft Gets 0 Votes

Old Guard Republicans and reactionary Democrats, who condemned the American Youth Congress this week, got small comfort today from the delegates' departure from New York.

These vital 1,200 and more young people from all parts of the country, gave a blow to Old Guard presidential hopes in a voting machine test that is highly significant.

The voting machine test was impersonal and democratic. Each delegate voted secretly. And when the votes were counted at the end of the sessions one of the Old Guard's 1940 champions was counted all the way out.

TAFT VOTE—0

Robert A. Taft, United States Senator from Ohio, a chief anti-New Deal challenger, got precisely no votes at all out of 1,287.

Taft's name was on the voting machine, but he got nothing.

President Franklin D. Roosevelt, on the other hand, got 904 votes.

These youths were broadly representative. Most of them came from church and fraternal society and student groups. A smaller number from labor unions and only a very small minority from the Socialist and Communist youth organizations.

Another progressive, Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia of New York, was the youths' second choice. He got 56 votes.

The other presidential preference votes follow:

Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan, 24; Cordell Hull (Secretary of State), 18; John N. Garner (Vice-President), 4, and one vote for Norman Thomas, whose name was written in.

Mayor Accepts Norwegian Monument Gift

Prince Presents Shaft of Leiv Errickson; Ties of Democracy Hailed

A monument dedicated to the memory of Leiv Errickson, Norse explorer who sailed to America in the year 1,000, was accepted from Crown Prince Olav of Norway by Mayor LaGuardia yesterday for the city as a token of "hope and aspiration to America."

A large shaft of native Norway granite, bearing a bronze plate signifying the Norseman's discovery of America, the monument was unveiled at Errickson Park, Fourth Ave. and 67th St., Brooklyn.

Prince Olav, who received the stone from Norwegian societies and presented it to the city, was accompanied at the ceremonies by Crown Princess Martha and members of the Norwegian diplomatic corps.

SYMBOL OF DEMOCRACY
"The deep rooted belief in democracy of the American people is a beacon light to the entire world," said the Prince in dedication of the monument.

He lauded the "kind friendliness" of Americans for Norway and said the statue should stand as a "symbol of democracy, freedom, and popular government."

The Mayor, in reply, said it was a "token of hope" to hear a "royal crown prince praise democracy."

Light sentence made lighter. Arguing before Judge Goddard, Minton attempted to make a virtue of the frequency of the crime, declaring "he was no more guilty than many other men."

The court was crowded with young women whose interest in the case had been aroused by the romantic publicity splashed through the pages of the press, lending an air of glamour to the exploits of the callous criminal. The trial was marked by spectacular scenes as a series of big movie personalities were summoned to the stand as witnesses against Buckner.

William F. Maloney, Assistant U.S. Attorney, when asked by Judge Goddard for his opinion, recommended that Buckner be sentenced to three years in prison, and the others to two years each.

Buckner is out on $5,000 appeal bond.

Milk Parley 'Mad Butcher' Continues on Changes Story Drivers Terms

Drivers Meet Dealers in Effort to Win 5-Day Week

Spokesmen for the city's union milk wagon drivers and representatives of 60 big New York milk dealers met throughout yesterday at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel in an effort to reach an agreement on a new union contract.

The drivers, members of the powerful Brotherhood of Teamsters, an AFL affiliate, were represented by officers of Local 584, among them union President Thomas O'Leary.

With the possibility of a citywide strike looming, Mayor LaGuardia several days ago stepped in and brought both sides together in an effort to settle the issues involved amicably. The union drivers are asking that the five-day week be written into the new contract.

The Mayor is being represented at the parleys by Arthur S. Meyer, of the State Mediation Board.

The big milk dealers negotiating with Local 584 are headed by A. H. Dubenfield, president of the Morrisania Dairies.

In addition to Local 584, several other Brotherhood of Teamsters are also involved in the controversy over a new contract. They are Local 680, of New Jersey and Local 338 of Westchester County.

The Waldorf Astoria conference got under way early yesterday afternoon and continued until late evening after both sides called an hour recess at 7 P. M.

Neither side would comment on the developments at yesterday's parley.

Allied Nations To Get London War Aid Credit

by Oliver Stanley, president of the Board of Trade, and passed first reading immediately.

The first credits are expected to go to Poland, which expects ultimately to receive nearly $200,000,000 from the British, to aid her in meeting the estimated $1,000,000-a-day cost of maintaining 1,300,000 troops under arms.

Arms and munitions exports will be the most immediate result of the credits, it was understood.

Announcement of the credits coincided with reports of an Air Force "test mobilization" and the dispatch of the 52 fighting and bombing planes to Paris next week.

The Air Ministry announced tonight that five squadrons of the Royal Air Force comprising 52 fighting and bombing planes of the latest type will fly to Le Bourget airport outside Paris on Monday to join with French military planes in a demonstration over Paris.

The British planes, along with an estimated 1,500 French planes, will fly over the broad Champs Elysees on July 14, Bastille Day, while thousands of troops, guns and motorized units parade below. A battalion of British guards will march.

The British planes will include Spitfire and Hurricane fighters, and Blenheim, Hampden and Wellington bombers—tokens of the rebirth of British fighting strength in the air.

Shipowners, Red Hynes Anti-Labor Attempt Charged for Action

(Special to the Daily Worker)
SAN FRANCISCO, July 6 (UP).—Charges that the deportation case against Harry Bridges, CIO leader, is primarily an attempt by the organized ship owners of the Pacific Coast to terrorize, and if possible, to smash the maritime organizations were made here publicly today by the Bridges Defense Committee.

This view is shared by numerous AFL unions who have announced their condemnation of the proceedings against Bridges, president of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union, and CIO director for the West Coast.

All AFL central labor councils in Monterey, Santa Clara, San Mateo, San Cruz and San Benito counties, meeting in a five county legislative conference in San Jose on Sunday, joined the growing list of AFL organizations opposing the attack on Bridges.

AFL HEAD BACKS FIGHT
The action followed personal statements from such outstanding AFL leaders here as Dewey Mead, business agent of the Painters Union, and San Francisco supervisor, and by such political figures as Congressman Frank R. Havenner.

Havenner wired: "I will do everything in my power to assure a square deal for Harry Bridges."

Bridges defense committees, formed up and down the Coast, include numerous university professors, movie stars, attorneys, social leaders and other professionals, as well as a leading labor union official.

Carol King, attorney, here to conduct the case for Bridges, which is scheduled to start July 10, said: "I wish that the real witnesses would take the stand against him. If they did we would see immediately how this case traces back to strike-breaking organizations and the organized ship owners."

"We know the case against Bridges is prepared by Red Hynes, the Los Angeles red squad policeman; by J. Harper Knowles, the Associated Farmer leader who has already testified before the Dies Committee; by Stanley Doyle, chief spy-herder of the Pacific Coast and by certain agents of the Immigration Bureau here who have also continually agitated against Bridges."

The Peoples World and other labor papers of California are conducting a strenuous campaign to be allowed to report the hearings. The latest information received was that hearings will take place in the semi-secrecy of the Angel Island Immigration Station, without even adequate telegraph or telephone facilities, and only three main wire news services allowed to have reporters.

The local immigration bureau office washes its hands of all responsibility and declares that passes will be issued to reporters only if Immigration Commissioner James Houghteling in Washington approves them beforehand.

The Bridges Defense Committee and labor papers demand that the Bridges hearing be transferred to the large federal court rooms in San Francisco itself.

Divers Revive Hopes of Raising Squalus By 1st

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., July 6 (UP).—Hopes of raising the sunken submarine Squalus and its 26 dead by Aug. 1 were revived today after a Navy diver freed a fouled line which had threatened to force to the surface two huge salvage pontoons already submerged.

The 2½-inch reeling cable, used to draw the chain to which the pontoons are attached under the ship, was "pinched" by a chain loop near the Squalus' stern yesterday.

Seattle Gets Food Stamps

FOOD STAMPS—First food stamp customer in Seattle, Wash., was Mrs. Maude Koe. She and her small daughter are shown above. Basket held by the clerk holds food received free with blue stamps. Food on counter was bought with orange stamps. The plan has been successfully established in such cities as Rochester, New York and Dayton, Ohio. Enthusiastic response from both relief clients, small merchants and business people greeted the surplus subsidy program. Other cities are expected to be included in the New Deal food aid test.

Mt. Sinai Dysentery Outbreak 'Well in Hand'

Commissioner Rice Reports on Food Poisoning Cases Throughout City; Nurses and Food Handlers Examined for Dysentery Germs

The dysentery epidemic that affected 93 nurses at Mt. Sinai Hospital was described as "well in hand" yesterday by Health Commissioner John L. Rice in a statement which summarized findings of food poisoning instances in other parts of the city. "So far this year, exclusive of the Staten Island, Mt. Sinai and Presbyterian Hospital outbreaks," Rice said, "450 cases of food poisoning have been reported, including a group of 12 cases in the nurses' home on Welfare Island. None of these cases were serious."

This compares with 780 cases last year, the report read, which occurred in groups of 3, 4, 5 and 6. Only one large outbreak, embracing 100 cases, was reported to the department in January, 1938.

"Outbreaks of gastro-intestinal disturbances," Rice asserted, "chargeable to foods, are of common occurrence in all communities, especially during hot weather."

Their control and investigation form a routine Health Department activity, Rice added, and most cases are over before detailed studies can be arranged.

All 48 food handlers at Mt. Sinai have been examined and cleared by the Health Department investigation over the July 4th week-end. However, 60 additional nurses were found to be carriers of the dysentery bacillus, but none is ill.

They will be completely isolated until their specimens are negative. Similar examinations of those who had been ill will be pressed and none will be allowed to return to duty until three negative specimens have been recorded.

"Careful study has failed to reveal," the report said, "a single hospital patient being infected due to this outbreak."

At Presbyterian Hospital, an examination of 35 nurses and two internes, made ill by food poisoning June 25, disclosed no fever or symptoms of bacillary dysentery.

The laboratory investigation succeeded in isolating a food poisoning bacillus known as B. Aertrycke, a micro-organism responsible for these outbreaks throughout the world. The offending germ is in no way related to dysentery bacillus.

The Mt. Sinai bacillus was classified, after numerous tests, as a "so-called Newcastle type," closely resembling the Flexner type of dysentery.

Hitlerism vs. Americanism

Who is going to win out in the fight on the Bloom Bill—Hitler or the American people?

When the Congressional Tory Bloc sneaked a crippling embargo amendment into the Bloom Bill last week, the Hitler press danced with joy. Hitler likes these Garner-Hoover "amendments"; these "amendments" deprive his victims of help from America behind the mask of "neutrality."

But now the Senate Foreign Relations Committee has the Bloom Bill. They'll discuss it on Saturday. It is a vital day for American safety and peace.

The Bloom Bill is not enough; but it goes in the right direction. At least, it tells the Fascist war-makers that their victims may be able to buy American supplies and defend themselves. It should also embargo all aggressors and help the victims of aggression; it should shut off all trade with Japan immediately. That would protect American boys from the menace of advancing Fascist war.

You should act. Your trade union especially should send its demand to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee for the passage of the Bloom Bill and for an embargo against Japan. Stop war. America cannot wait until its house has been set on fire.

Between Now and Monday

The so-called "revised state budget" is scheduled to be voted on Monday, when the Republicans will seek to continue their atrocious cuts in education—cuts which threaten the whole school system.

Instead of restoring the $10,000,000 slash in state aid to education, the Hoover-Dewey gang has proceeded to do everything else but that. Their actions have already brought forth from Gov. Lehman an appeal for "normal, orderly procedure."

Assemblyman Moffat, chief GOP "economy" demagog, will try to jam through his measure slashing teachers' salaries under the pretext of "salvaging part of the schools." The scheme is a hoax from beginning to end, intended to usher in a wage-cutting drive in state and private employment, and to leave the schools seriously amputated as well.

The vaunted Republican "economy" bugs, through their law-breaking budget, have already necessitated a special session which will cost tax payers about $100,000 extra. And to cap the climax they propose to use $25,000 of the people's money to pay Arthur A. Ballantine, the lawyer who defended the reactionary and unconstitutional Republican budget—a piece of highway robbery if ever there was one.

There is still time for the special session to carry out the primary purpose for which it was called: the restoration of the school cuts. Between now and Monday, the campaign to save the schools should reach its high point. Wire or write Republican Senate Leader Joseph Hanley, and the Republican Speaker of the Assembly Oswald Heck, in Albany. Let them know that the people won't stand for a single cut in teachers' salaries, nor will they permit the schools to be wrecked.

Hoover Speaks, Thomas Echoes—Hitler Applauds

What a contrast between the advice which Hoover and Norman Thomas gave America yesterday on "peace," and the cool wisdom of Earl Browder speaking before the Virginia Institute of Public Relations!

Hoover and Thomas sound different on the surface. But at bottom, they are now telling the American people exactly the same thing—let Hitler alone, don't interfere with his plans for more war and still more war.

Hoover cynically writes, "Let's stay out of power politics," and in this way plunges the United States up to its neck in Hitler's power politics by making us a silent partner of the Fascist war scheme.

Norman Thomas told Smith College yesterday, "It's too late to stop Hitler by threats." "Threats"! That's Hitler's own way of smearing any effort to deprive him of war supplies or new victims. Norman Thomas echoes this fascist justification for war down to the last syllable. Wonderful Norman Thomas! Up to now he was in a frenzy against any action by the United States against Fascism because it would be "imperialistic" to interfere with Hitler—now, after he has preached submission to the Fascist seizure of half of Europe, he counsels that "it's too late to stop Hitler"! Always accommodating to Hitler.

No wonder the Nazi press was overjoyed this week at the blackjacking of the Bloom Bill by the Tory "neutrality" gang. Funny how this fake "neutrality" works in so well with Hitler's plans for more war.

Add Hoover and Thomas together, and what do we get? War propaganda, disguised as "peace" talk. Let Hitler make war—that's their advice to the fathers and mothers of this nation. And they dare call this a road to peace!

Browder's keen analysis will command the interest and approval of every peace-loving American who considers it fairly in the light of every-day reality. The preservation of world peace is "a national interest of the Soviet Union and the United States," he declared. Joint action to halt aggression by embargo, by combination of all peaceful nations to defend national independence, is the surest road to stop the Hitler firebrands. U. S.-Soviet collaboration "would quickly become the most effective conceivable center for the stabilization of world peace."

Practical. Simple. Truly a policy of peace, not a policy of despairing surrender to more Fascist war. Berlin loves the Hoover-Thomas "let-Hitler-alone" propaganda. But the American people's safety requires the policy of halting Fascist war.

A Blow Against All Americans

The execution of Bubbles Clayton and Jim Carruthers last June 30—two innocent Negro youths framed on a charge of "rape" down in Arkansas—was a horrible case of "legal" lynching.

Notorious as an Arkansas "Scottsboro" case, this frame-up was protested by Negro and white labor and progressives throughout the country, including the South. But the protests did not rise high enough. For this was not only an unspeakable crime against the citizenship rights of the Negro people, but a blow against the developing progressive movement in the South.

At first, the two youths were charged with "shooting a sheriff." When this was so rotten it fell through the vicious "rape" slander was dragged out. The whole thing grew out of the landlord drive to intimidate the Negro and white sharecroppers organizing together in the state.

This tragedy against American democracy shows how vital it is to safeguard all the civil and constitutional rights of the Negro people—a job requiring the most energetic action of the federal civil rights department set up by Attorney General Murphy. Passage of the anti-lynching bill at this session of Congress would be a powerful check on the lynch reactionaries whose barbarous crimes against the Negro people threaten the democratic rights of every American, regardless of race, creed or color.

Tokio's Baron Munchausens Get a Stinging Lesson

There is no balm on the Mongolian People's Republic border, the Japanese aggressor is learning. Entering the third year of the costly and futile aggression against the united Chinese people, the Nipponese militarist-fascists thought they could create a diversion at the most inaccessible sector of the Mongolian border to defend.

What they could not achieve in the vicinity of Lake Buir, Mongolia, the Nipponese military propaganda agency tried to create by the most extravagant lies. But the Japanese Kwantung army heads discovered that a lie never lives to be old. And the bigger the whopper, this time, the briefer its existence.

So finally, the propaganda general who was trying to write in ink the "victories" that the Japanese military had actually lost in blood, was dismissed. "Baron Munchausen" Kawarara was replaced by Colonel Wato.

Meanwhile, news had reached Shanghai of Japan's heavy losses in the Mongolian assaults. The Associated Press reported:

"Foreigners arriving from Manchukuo said that hospitals in Harbin were 'filled to overflowing' with Japanese soldiers wounded in fighting Soviet Russian and Outer Mongolian forces along the border between Manchukuo and Outer Mongolia."

"The reports were the first independent confirmation of heavy fighting previously reported. . . . Japanese official sources here said that Japan had suffered 'heavy casualties' in fighting between Japanese and Soviet infantry forces."

However, the Soviet Official News agency in a calm, factual, and thoroughly convincing statement yesterday gave the whole story. Filled hospitals in Manchukuo attest to the Soviet report that: "The Mongolian-Soviet troops repulsed all attacks of the Japanese-Manchurian troops in the Nomon-Kan-Burd-Oba area and inflicted heavy losses on them."

The tall tales of the Japanese military are completely discredited and disbelieved by the average newspaper reader. Why, one asks, however did the Nipponese military undertake so rash an attack?

First, their situation in China is desperate. They tried at the most out-of-the-way place to obtain a diversion against the Soviet Union to delude their own people on the second anniversary of Japan's failure to subdue China; second, the Japanese military in Manchukuo has run amok over its disappointment with the Nipponese failures in China; third, the Kwantung army (the Japanese forces on the Asian continent) thought it could thereby bring pressure on the cabinet at home to enter into a military alliance with Rome and Berlin; and fourth, by attacking the U.S.S.R., even at heavy cost, the Nipponese war lords thought they could inspire Chamberlain to bring Munich to the Far East and help Japan out of the quicksand of China.

The crushing blow, however, received by the Japanese bandits, reminding them once again of Changkufeng last year, wrote the stinging reply of the U.S.S.R. in machine-gun bullets on marauding Japanese troops.

50,000 CZECHS DEFY NAZI BAN

For John Huss --- Czech Honor to Great Liberator Is Handwriting on Wall

These mighty mass demonstrations portend the coming freedom forecast in the magnificent lines across the front of the Czechoslovakian Pavilion at the World's Fair.

These lines by John Amos Comenius, the great educator and leader of the Hussite organization, the Moravian Brethren, are a warning to the Nazis today.

They read: "After the Tempest of Wrath has Passed the Rule of thy Country will Return to Thee O Czech People."

Comenius made this prophesy of independence as an exile during the Thirty-Year War of the seventeenth century when the Austro-German invaders again overran his fair land and three quarters of the people of Bohemia perished.

FULFILLMENT WILL COME "The fulfillment of Comenius's prophesy came to Czechoslovakia in 1920," said a World's Fair representative to the Daily Worker today in discussing the Czech situation.

"The second fulfillment will come later," he added.

Huss drew much of his inspiration from Wycliffe, the great English religious reformer of the late fourteenth century. He fought for liberty of conscience in religion and emancipation of church and state from religious and political control by the Austro-Germanic Holy Roman Empire.

The Professor of the University of Prague, who rose from a peasants' home, had become the leader of a people revolting against feudalism and foreign tyranny.

Burning of the books of Huss and Wycliffe didn't slow up this broad movement.

ROSE FOR LIBERATION

And when the Emperor Sigismund and a treacherous archbishop had Huss burned at the stake the Czech people rose in a war of liberation.

"The execution of Huss set a revolution afoot in Bohemia," wrote Frederick Engels long after in the "Explanatory Notes" that follow his history of "The Peasant War in Germany."

The people drove King Wenceslaus, a stooge for the Empire, out of Bohemia. Peasants wanting land joined with city workers and business men. Some noble men too joined the national liberation movement, but the bulk of the soldiers of independence were poor folks. They fought in the name of John Huss.

John Zizka became the hero of the wars against Sigismund's armies. His stronghold was the city of Tabor, where the people set up a cooperative regime.

"The Taborites," said Engels, "taught that there shall be no kings, no masters, no subjects on earth. . . . Goods were shared, by the needy."

Zizka was one of the first users of artillery. He even devised a primitive "tank" powered by horses.

Victory followed victory till the enemies were badly routed at the great battle of Taus. And though eventually the Hussites were partially beaten, the people retained most of their national freedom. And feudalism never came back as before.

As a child I used to hear the stories of Huss from my parents who belonged to the Moravian Church, which sprang from his ashes.

They told the stories of the Hussite pioneers who helped construct our great land. Some of my mother's ancestors among them. After the Thirty Years' War the Hussites fled to Germany from the Austro-German terror. And from Germany they came to America and built many cooperative communities in Pennsylvania and the South two centuries ago.

The City of Bethlehem, Pa. is among these. Salem, now Winston-Salem, N.C., is another.

The Hussite tradition is one of freedom and cooperation. One for Americans to be proud of.

I'm glad I once had the privilege of seeing the great Huss movement in Prague. But I'm happier now that the masses gather round it—in defiance of Hitler, the common enemy, to honor this apostle of liberty.

Czechs Predict Coming Freedom At Fair Ceremonies to Honor Huss

The coming freedom of Czechoslovakia was stressed yesterday at the Court of Peace in the World's Fair where Czech and Slovak societies presented a program of music, folk dances and callisthenics in observation of Czechoslovak Day at the Fair.

The exercises were held on the 500th anniversary of the burning at the stake of John Huss, great Czechoslovakian leader and religious reformer.

Eduard Benes, second president of the Czechoslovak Republic and Mayor LaGuardia sent wires to the participants expressing regret at being unable to attend.

"My faith and hope for your people and your country are well-known," the wire from the Mayor read.

Grover Whalen, head of the World's Fair Corp., also sent a message of greeting.

More than 1,000 persons saw the program and heard speeches stressing the continued fight for the freedom of Czechoslovakia by Vladimir S. Hruban, Minister to the United States; George J. Yancek, Commissioner General for Czechoslovak participation at the Fair, who was chairman of the meeting; Josef Martinek, executive secretary of the Czechoslovak National Council; and Dr. Gerald F. Machacek, president of the United American Czechoslovak Societies of New York, under whose auspices the program was held.

EXHIBIT 'LIBERTY' SYMBOL

Yancek said that the Czechoslovakian exhibit at the Fair "stands as a symbol of liberty." He said its incomplete state resulted from the "wanton lawlessness and arbitrary force" of Nazi Germany, quoting the phrase used by undersecretary of State Sumner Welles in announcing the United States' refusal to recognize the rape of Czechoslovakia.

Hruban said that the Czechoslovakian people did not despair and had not despaired, and that the symbol of liberty which is the Czechoslovakian Pavilion is "understood not only by leading men and women in the United States, but by the wide masses of the people of the country."

Machacek declared that "the people of all the world and particularly in this country are supporting a free Czechoslovakia as a symbol that men cannot retreat and save that which is vital to humanity."

He was applauded when he said that the Czechoslovakian Pavilion was at the Fair because the government in Washington had refused to recognize the rape by the Nazis.

He compared the desire for liberty expressed by the people of Czechoslovakia to the liberty of which Walt Whitman, great American poet sang.

Put the Spotlight on Them—

Editor, Daily Worker: New York City.

I am not a member of your Party, but I am a great admirer of the way you fight so openly for the interest of labor, with more papers of your kind labor will get some where in America.

I therefore feel it would be a fine idea for you to tear down these Wall Street bullies, who believe in keeping the down-trodden working man continually on the job day after day, while they stay away from work themselves.

They tell working man how much they love him, but at the same time they are trying to defeat Roosevelt, the laboring man's friend for a third term.

The spotlight of these birds will make the laboring man sit up and take notice and get fully behind Franklin D. Roosevelt for a third term. If they don't and the Republicans gain control, you can rest assured the laboring class will be working for starvation wages again, and ten and twelve hours a day will be inaugurated.

The American people is not aware of the sinister group of anti-alien bills now before Congress, of which two or three have already passed the House. These bills—sixty in total—penalize aliens in a variety of ways: outright exclusion of all immigrants and deportation of all non-citizens, the compulsory registration and fingerprinting of all aliens, restrictions on their employment, deportation for advocating "any change" in government (this bill has already passed

"System of Loopholes";

Evidence of Another Munich

Is Prime Minister Chamberlain striving to set up a "system of loopholes" for further Munich appeasements instead of desiring an aggression-blocking peace front?

R. Palme Dutt, in his Notes of the Month in the July issue of the British Labour Monthly, makes out a brilliant case proving that the Chamberlain gang, under new conditions, by new intrigues, is seeking to attain its original Munich objectives.

Latest news from London, furthermore, distressingly reveals Mr. Chamberlain's refusal to warn Hitler away from Danzig.

When taken together with other preponderant evidence that the British Munichers have not swerved an inch from their initial intention (of appeasing fascism to attack exclusively in an easterly direction, that is, against the U.S.S.R.), the following July 5 A.P. item from London throws a powerful floodlight on present Tory foreign policy:

"An 'If in Great Britain's' pledge to Poland caused misgivings in circles where it had been feared that Britain might seek a loophole if the Danzig situation came to a showdown."

In the light of this commentary on Chamberlain maneuvering, the reasons for British Tory stalling on the consummation of a mutual assistance pact with the Soviet Union stand out in all their ugly significance. If the British Prime Minister hedges on his general promises to Poland is he likely to abide by any but hard and fast agreements with the Soviet Union?

There is another situation in Great Britain today which exposes the Chamberlain government's duplicity. Overwhelming public opinion, as well as some important Tory circles, insists that Winston Churchill, Conservative oppositionist, be drawn into the cabinet. Churchill to Hitler that England means business when it talks about resisting fascist aggression. Yet Chamberlain vehemently refuses. The common sense conclusion which inevitably must be drawn from the combination of Chamberlain's position is that the Tory Prime Minister does not wish to do anything to dampen the hopes of Hitler that another appeasement is in the making.

Now as to the latest British excuse for delaying a peace pact with the U.S.S.R., here the Munichers' game is clearly exposed. For example, it is said in the press that the Soviet Union asks that Finland, Estonia, and Latvia be guaranteed against "indirect aggression." This Chamberlain balks at doing.

What is meant by "indirect aggression"? Spain is the answer. There Mr. Chamberlain also refused (utilizing the scandalous "non-intervention" scheme) to bar the way to Rome-Berlin "indirect aggression" against the Spanish Republic. Again, the British Prime Minister wants no obstacles put in the way of any Baltic Francoes Made in Germany or Italy.

Taken together with his entire policy, his Munich past, and his present stand on Danzig, the refusal to include Churchill in the cabinet, and his deliberate delay on a Soviet pact, Chamberlain is rightly accused of having, if not plotting, another Munich.

In this connection, American circles close to the British Munichmen, are already tipping off their followers that there is to be another Munich at the expense of Poland, involving Danzig and the Corridor. The July 3 number of Roger Babson's "Reports" told its investment-holding subscribers:

"Another Munich is in preparation. The same technique is being used. Emphasis on gas masks and trench-digging in public parks may be expected. . . . Chamberlain has not said England will fight for the Corridor. . . . The prospects for Europe over the reasonably near term include the following developments: (1) Danzig and the Corridor to Hitler; (2) Poland let down, later dismembered; (3) Another Munich."

Things are not quite this simple though, but such is Chamberlain's hope, if he can get away with it.

Suspicion, however, is rising in the House of Commons, and demands are being made for a specific statement with regard to Danzig. Chamberlain's maneuvering ground is being severely restricted. Nevertheless, even the Wednesday edition of the N. Y. Times published news of fears in London that Chamberlain's evasive statements on Danzig forecast another appeasement attempt.

Even an official statement on Danzig would not put the appeasement dangers at rest. With the help of his shrewd lawyers, the chief Tory Munichman would try to work out some tricky phraseology which would be designed to keep the British people befuddled over Danzig and yet, at the same time, keep the way open, however minutely, for Hitler to grab Danzig and pave the way for another Munich.

For in the final analysis, Chamberlain is still doggedly pursuing his reactionary aims which underlay the whole first Munich idea. The Nazis are quite cognizant of this situation. That is why they are so menacing. In order to reach this goal, this time, however, Chamberlain has to get around Poland's determination to resist, and the British and French peoples' insistence on a mutual assistance pact with the Soviet Union.

No doubt, in his haste to get around these obstacles, Mr. Chamberlain bruises his political shins, and in his anxiety to attain another Munich, he might ultimately break his neck. Meanwhile, he has met not a serious obstacle in the form of a united British opposition to Munich.

the House), internment camps for deportable aliens whose countries will not accept them (also passed the House), and many others of similar character.

What is the purpose of these bills? Is it really directed against aliens? There are about three and a half million non-citizens in America, and this number is being decreased rapidly by more than 200,000 a year despite immigration of refugees.

Their real purpose is to undermine the freedom of all labor and progressive people of America. If passed they will ease the way for repressive legislation particularly against the labor movement. "The attack on the alien workers," said John Brophy, National Director of the C.I.O., "is only a part of the general offensive that the reactionary interests are carrying on against the entire people of our nation."

We can prevent passage of these bills. Let us make clear to our Representatives and Senators in Congress that we shall not tolerate this threat to civil liberties. EVERETTE MOORE BAKER, ROBERT C. And in the Yankee Stadium

"You think baseball's on the level? Don't be such a dumbunny. It's all a racket—it's fixed for dough..."

Yankee Stadium, Club House, October, 1938. A sweat soaked under-shirt splats up against George Selkirk's neck. A grinning, singing, hot bunch of athletes lift their manager up on their shoulders and begin a loud, "For he's a jolly good fellow..." Joe McCarthy smiles happily. "Cut it out now boys... but no kidding you're the best ball club I ever had anything to do with..." From another side a fist rattles a tin locker. "Where, four straight... and how did you like old Red out there today?"... off in the corner, taking off his still clean socks, Arndt Jorgens, quiet reserve catcher, smiles. "You know why this is such a great team? Because they got that spirit of thoroughbred athletes... they play together, pull for each other and like to trot off that field ahead every single time... because they think they have the stuff."

"You take in all that stuff you read in the sport pages? I tell you, there never was a fight on the level... it's all a big racket. Publicity buildup for the gate, see. They know who's going to win as soon as they make the match."

Dressing room—Yankee Stadium, May, 1939. A man with a face that looks as though it's been knocked lopsided by a truck sits back on a small table and gasps for air through blood flecked lips, horribly swollen. A big tear trickles down through the blood caked cheek. He looks dazed, uncomprehending. "I just didn't have enough out there... and I thought I had him... I..." "You're OK Max, you put up one of the finest fights ever seen here... You gave all you had" "Thanks, it's nice of you to say that... but gee, I should have had him... I couldn't breathe... I let my friends down..."

"Say, do you fall for all that stuff? That's hokey. Don't be so naive about these phony fights."

In the tunnel leading to the dressing rooms under the Yankee Stadium—10:35 P. M., June 22, 1939... a stout woman is pressed up against the stone wall, racked with convulsive sobs, while two others try to comfort her. The broken voice in a sort of choked scream, "It was horrible... oh, it was horrible... he was so sure he was going to win... and did you see his face... when he kept getting hit and wouldn't fall down... oh, it was horrible..." "Please, Mrs. Galento, please stop crying... he made a brave fight..."

"When you know what it's all about you don't take in all that mullarkey... they're all phonies from the word go..."

In front of Polyclinic Hospital, June, 1939... A group of ragged kids, Negro and white, with a large bouquet of flowers... "Would you take this in to Mr. Dempsey, please. Tell him from the shoe shine boys... thanks... he's a little better today, isn't he?"

"You go for that maulin publicity? It's all a big act... that stuff is all faked for suckers like you. Those sports writers sure fool you..."

Dugout, Yankee Stadium—4:15 P. M., July 4, 1939—A broad backed, piano legged man, in a white uniform with a big number 4 on the back steps haltingly down the stone steps off the field... there's the little suggestion of a limp... his face is drawn and haggard and his lips are quivering... a ceaseless roar, like thunder comes from the packed stands above... cheers... a veteran sports writer who has just wiped from his eyes the first tears to appear there in fifteen years walks over and clasps him by the arm... "Lou, I just want to say that I think that was the finest thing I ever heard any man say anywhere, anytime..."

"You take in all that junk you read on the sports page? How many times do I have to tell you it's all just publicity stuff... buildup..."

Bushwicks in Nite Til

Jimmy Pattison, ace hurler of the Bushwicks' staff, tonight is likely to get the assignment of trying to stop the snappy Union City Reds, powerful Metropolitan Baseball Association nine, in an arc game at Dexter Park. The Reds twice have conquered the Bushwicks and a reversal is in order if the Dexters don't want to lose standing with their followers.

PRESS BOX

By SCORER

This is the first time since 1932 the Brooklyn Dodgers have been within distance of second place on or about the Fourth of July, but the press box figure that they would be even higher up if it hadn't been for the schedule-makers.

The late John McGraw, while he was putting the New York Giants into pennant after pennant, explained the process by saying that to win a flag a club had to beat the low clubs in the league.

That's what the Brooklyn masterminds said after they watched the Dodgers beat the Phillies twice the other day... To date, the Brooks have raced Philadelphia only seven times, while other clubs have been having a veritable field day against the Phils and the seventh place Boston Bees.

The league-leading Cincinnati Reds have knocked off the Phillies eight times and the Bees nine so far and are five games up on the rest of the league.

And the Dodgers figure they could be up there too if they had a chance to meet up with the Bees and Phils early in the season. But the schedule is so arranged that Brooklyn faces Philadelphia nine times in the last eight days of the season—and by then it will probably be much too late to do anything about the price of eggs in the National League.

They've got something there, but it takes victories over the other clubs, too, to win a pennant.

Donald Aims For 20 Wins

All along they've been saying that Atley Donald was lucky, and that he was winning primarily because he happened to be a member of the Yankees' pitching staff.

But the last doubt about Donald's right to his major league spurs has been dispelled. He beat the Washington Senators Wednesday for his 10th straight victory, and it takes more than luck to win 10 straight in any league. He's headed for the 20-win charmed circle now.

The tall right-hander out of the Chadrant, Louisiana, canebrakes asked Johnny Nee, Yankee scout, for a tryout when he was pitching for Louisiana Tech. Nee told him to come on to the Yanks' camp at St. Petersburg, Fla., but he didn't say anything about paying Donald's railroad fare.

So Donald hitch-hiked to St. Petersburg early in the winter of 1934, and worked in a grocery store until the Yanks showed up. He asked for a tryout and manager Joe McCarthy tossed him into batting practice. Donald stayed out there and threw them up to the Yanks for 30 minutes. McCarthy had thought the lad would show himself up, and quit. But he didn't and he won a place in McCarthy's heart.

Donald started at Wheeling and worked his way up the Yankee chain via Norfolk, Binghamton and Newark. In 1937 he won 19 and lost 2 for Newark but wasn't quite ready for the Yanks last year and was sent back. But he's up to stay now.

ALONG FISTIC ROW

Maxie Berger took the Canadian Junior Welter title in Montreal Wednesday night by whipping Wamey in ten rounds... Maxie had the vet on the deck three times and thereby avenged two previous defeats to Ramey... his synthetic crown will probably be recognized by the NBA...

Johnny Bellus outsmarted Johnny Spiegel, who seems to be on the downgrade, and won the close eight-round decision in the Queensboro Arena feature Wednesday night...

Mike Jacobs had a look at Mello Bettina in workout at Beacon yesterday and said the Italian leftie looked plenty for his light-heavy title defense against Billy Conn at the Garden Thursday night...

What that means is hard to tell as past records mean very little when Giant meet Dodger. There will be 27,500 seats on sale at 55 cents and a dollar ten for tomorrow's and Sunday's games.

You pay your money, chooses your spot and tosses your bottle folks! Step right up!

Morrie's Slugging Ruins Cellar Club's Hopes for Most Games Lost Record; Prothro Inherited Poor Excuse for Big League Club

By Henry McLemore

Riding the crest of a nine-game losing streak, the Philadelphia Phillies are out to clinch last place in the National League before mid-July and confound those critics who said they couldn't accomplish the feat before August.

With only 19 games won against 44 lost the futile Fusiliers have built a Maginot line about the cellar position and today appeared weak and inept enough to defend it against any challenge.

Beaten in 14 of their last 16 games the Phillies are playing so miserably that their admirers are enthusiastically envisioning a worse record than that of last year when the club won but 45 games during the entire season. If their pitchers can just keep from falling into a winning slump, and their batters fight off hitting streaks, there is a good chance that the team can immortalize itself by breaking the record of 117 games lost in one season, which was established by the Philadelphia American League club in 1916.

Philly followers have long been jealous of this mark made by the Athletics. They have coveted it for their own team for many years, and Doc Prothro, manager of the Phillies, could own the town if only he could "inspire" his boys to a point where they could better it. For a while this season there was a feeling in Philadelphia that the Phillies not only would crack this modern mark of games lost in one year, but would make a bold bid for the all-time mark of 134, set by Cleveland in 1899.

But Morris Arnovich has wrecked this beautiful dream. Arnovich, who apparently lacks the true Philly spirit, has been hitting at a tremendous clip all season. With a callous disregard for the team's welfare, Arnovich has led the league's hitters, and it appears that he must be traded or sold before the Phils can become the complete and utter doormats of the league. Time and again this season Arnovich has thoughtlessly stepped to the plate and won a game for the club after his teammates had appeared to have lost it beyond redemption. How long the other players on the club will stand for this sort of thing is problematical. It is very trying for a team to have one man spoil a terribly played game and snatch defeat from its very grasp.

When the time comes for the election of a new captain of the Phillies the players are going to be hard put to decide between Max Butcher and Al Hollingsworth. These two pitchers have contributed wholeheartedly to the misery of the team and are due a lion's share of the credit for the team's having such a firm grasp on last place. In nine starts Hollingsworth has fought through to nine deaths and Butcher, while he slipped up on two occasions and won games, has more than atoned for these lapses by pitching 11 beautiful defeats.

This is Doc Prothro's first year as manager, but the team has more than fulfilled his expectations. He came to the Phillies knowing it was the weakest baseball club in the league, but in less than three months of play the team has gone out of its way to show its new manager that it not only was the weakest in the National League, but also might well be the weakest in the Three-Eye or the Evangelical twilight loops.

A stranger to the team, Prothro has done well to keep it as low as it is. Next year, with a knowledge of the team's strength and how to subdue it, Prothro should have little trouble in guiding it to new and worse records.

Bucs Blast Dean, Drop Cubs to 6th With 7-2 Win

PITTSBURGH, July 6.—They caught up with Dizzy Dean yesterday pitching with no more than a good grip on the ball and lots of nerve, Dean had rung up four victories and lost none but today he was batted out of the box and charged with his first loss of the season when the Pittsburgh Pirates downed the Chicago Cubs, 7-2. The win put the Pirates in fifth place in the National League standings and dropped the Cubs into sixth.

Dean, whose "nothing" ball and amazing control, along with lots of luck, had brought him through seven starts without a defeat, was shelled for eight hits in the third and one-third innings he worked. The Pirates scored three runs in the third on two singles and a triple and forced "the great one" out in the fourth with one gone and two on base.

Bob Klinger went the Pirates and allowed the Cubs seven hits for his seventh win.

Chisox Take 4th on 8-1 Tribe Trouncing

CHICAGO, July 6.—The Chicago White Sox today won their fifth straight game when they whipped the Cleveland Indians, 8-1 behind the five-hit pitching of Jack Knott, who won his third game of the year.

The Sox garnered 12 hits off four Cleveland pitchers and took fourth place by virtue of the win.

Council Aims to Ring Hoyt in on Reporters

An announcement by Vice-Chairman John Cashmore of the City Council that the councilmen had drafted Waite Hoyt, former star major league pitcher, as their hurler in a game against the City Hall reporters at Travers Island on Thursday, July 13, brought threats from the reporters yesterday that they would call their annual game off if Hoyt is not removed.

The reporters, who have scored easy victories over the old Board of Aldermen, advised Joseph E. Kinsley, coach of the councilmen's team, they will not permit ringers to be used against them.

A few of the City Hall newsmen, having connections in the sports world, have suggested, however, that Hoyt be permitted to pitch for the legislators if Babe Ruth is the reporter to pitch and bat for the reporters. The reporters are expected to consider this compromise today.

his boy get the promised Fall title go as a reward for stopping ex-champ Max Baer last month.

But the lure of a big gate in the Galento scrap finally got Carlen to OK the plans on condition that Nova gets first crack at the crown next year.

Louis will be making an unprecedented eight title defense when he faces Pastor, Washington Heights kid whose chief claim to fame is the fact that he stayed ten rounds with Joe two years ago.

Hero of the week: Mello Bettina. Reason: Making first light heavy defense against one of the cleverest youngsters to come up in years.

We've never been too much impressed with Mello's stuff. Saw him beat Henry Cooper and kayo Tiger Jack Fox but he still failed to stop championship stuff. And although champ in what's been a woefully weak division, he still has to make good.

But Mello rates heaps of applause for putting up his crown against Billy Conn in his first title defense at Madison Square Garden Thursday night.

As champ, Mello could run around the country and take on all kinds cheap competition before putting the crown on the line for the toughest like Conn and Gus Lemaire, whose stunning one-round kayo over Davey Clark puts him next on the list.

But Mello has tons of confidence in his ability and is sure he can turn the tables on heavily favored Billy. Bettina is rugged and after taking the socks of heavens like Italo Colonnello and Cooper, won't mind anything that Conn throws.

And Mello's southpaw style is likely to confuse Billy plenty. So, even though Billy rates high as one of the hottest ring prospects around today, don't sell Beacon's Bright Boy short.
